SENATE PLUNGES INTO ROW OVER BIG BUSINESS

Bitter Battle Over Control Of Business Under Way.

TEST BILL UP

Frelinghuysen Bill Is Vehicle For Rush Onslaughts.

Washington, June 20.—The senate today plunged into what threatens to be a long bitterly fought battle between the advocates of government regulation of "big business" and proponents of private government in business.

The test bill was the seasonable coal rate bill. The opposition and support centered on it was the warfare between the forces seking to have the government direct the production, transportation and marketing of food, clothes and fuel and these who contend that they should be left to the law of suply and demand and of private business.

The Frelinghuysen bill given the right of the way to the "unfinished business" for the senate, was the vehicle for the rush onslaughts on the Cummins transportation act, by Senator Lafollette, of Wisconsin Republican, chairman of the senate agricultural "bloc" and the senators, bent upon digging the whole railroad problem before the senate again.

Senators identified with the "agricultural "loc" defended Secretary of Commerce Hover from attacks directed by interests of opposed to the Frelinghuysen bill. Hoover conferred recently with the "agricultural bloc".

"Why should readjustment of the coal situation by initiating lower freight rates during the spring and summer months, and higher rates during the fall and winter, espoused by the Frelinghuysen bill, be confined to coal," senators identified with the "agricultural bloc" inquired; "if seasonal coal rates are to be provided, why not open up the entire freight rate question and demand a complete readjustment of all freight rates and railroad conditions?"

A motion to send both Frelinghuysen coal bills back to the senate interstate commerce committee by which they were favorably reported, was also under way. The motion was to be based on the ground that those opposed to them had insufficient opportunity to air their views as to why the government should let the coal industry severely alone.

THRILLING ESCAPES AND BIG DAMAGE FOLLOW CLOUDBURST

Marietta, O., June 20.—Scores of persons had thrilling escapes and damage which is estimated at $100,000 was done Saturday evening when a cloudburst started a great flood down Federal and Possum creeks, in Athens and Washington counties, with a wall of water four feet high rushing about it.

Thirty five childen practicing in Methodist church at Sharpsburg for childrens day exercises, rushed to a barn for safety when they saw the water sweeping down on the churcr.

SENATORS TAKE UP SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Washington, June 20.—Legislation for the relief of veterans of the world war occupied the center of the stage in senate committee today.

First and most important on the veterans committee is the adjusted compensation bill with the five-fold benefit provisions. After a week's delay to give the five senators time to familiarize themselves with its various features, the senate finance committee is considering it today and is expected to report it favorably.

Senate leaders are hopeful this measure formerly known as the "Soldier's bonus bill," and other legislative proposals of the veterans' relief bills will be put through before many weeks.

The photograph shows the tractor as it appeared while executing test maneuvres in the water at the Holt Testing Grounds. An army officer directs the single mechanic who operates it. The new tractor can go under water and has a periscope, with which the engine breathes. The caterpillar can go thirty miles an hour on land and carry a three inch gun. The photo shows the tractor in stream with army officer and mechanic during the Government test.

RUSSIAN CHIEFS CONCENTRATE FORCES TO OPPOSE GREEK ARMIES

Constantine Fails to Check Demoralization Permeating Greek Army—Cretan Soldiers Loyal to Premier Venizelos Refuse to Fight for King.

Constantinople, June 20. — The concentration of strong forces of Russian troops in the Caucasus, supported with artillery and armored cars, has enabled the Turkish nationalists to withdraw troops from that district and the Kemalist army in Anatolia is continually being reinforced, according to information received here today.

Following the occupation of Kars by part of the eleventh army corps of the Russian army the Turks withdrew and large amounts of Russian war materials were transported to the Anatalian coast.

There are indications that the presence of King Constantine has not checked the demoralization which began to permeate the Greek army. The Greek king was reported to have been seized with an indisposition at Smyrna but Constantine's illness was attributed in some quarters to the unfavorable reception the Crean soldiers accorded him.

The Cretan soldiers are loyal to Premier Venizeulas of Greece himself a Cretan, who was forced to leave Greece when Constantine returned from exile. Cretan soldiers mutinied while embarking from Rodes, for Anatolia, and attacked their officers. The official account of the incident was that it was a drunken brawl, but another version is that the Cretans refuse to fight for Constantine. Greek royalist troops suppressed the mutiny and four of the ring leaders were shot.

Military experts here believe that the position of the Turks is superior to that of the Greeks Evacuation of Zoungouldaks has been commenced by the French. The Italians are sending a force into the Meander Valley from Adalis to prevent the Greeks from entering to outflank the Turks. Italian warships have arrived at Adalia and are disembarking marines.

The activities of the French and Italians are explained by the fact that both countries have entered into an armistice with the Turks.

DEFEAT FOR VOLSTEAD BILL TO OUTLAW BEER PREDICTED AT OUTSET

Camp of Prohibitionists Split Wide Open By Charges Of Bad Faith Between Wheeler, and Dinwiddie—Former Object of Flood of Criticism.

Washington, June 20.—Defeat for the Volstead bill to outlaw beer was predicted today as the row began to take on more fire. The prohibitionists, at loggerhead with Andy Volstead, author of the bill to make medicinal beer-drinking a crime, went before the house rules committee for a grilling. Their camp was split wide open by the charges and counter charges of bad faith passed between Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the anti-saloon league and Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, leader of several national temperance bodies.

The wets wept no biter tears today as Dinwidie turned loose a verbal torrent of criticism against Wheeler and accused him of prime responsibility for an imminent flood of beer and liquor, such as the country has not known for 20 months since the "dry" era began. Dinwiddie was vehement over Wheeler's accusation that he was "aiding and abetting the wets."

Dinwiddie said of all persons in the land, Wheeler is to be chiefly blamed for the refusal of congress to make the beer bill a means of paralyzing legitimate users of alcohol.

"There will be a deluge of beer and other liquors and Wheeler is to be blamed for his obstinate attitude," said Dinwiddie. "He alone is responsible if delay results from his motion that anti-beer legislation must be backed up with a lot other controversial matters. I am deply sorry that such a situation has arisen. But congress cannot be expected to take action which clearly will exterminate interests under the guise of interdicting beer."

The row between the "drys" means inevitably that the house and senate will refuse to set aside its normal proceedure to furnish a vehicle to "railroad" the bill through.

As the merry dry row brewed there came a demand upon the treasury to issue the beer regulations and Secretary of the Treasury Melon directed commissioner of internal revenue Blair to make the beer regulations effective without further delay.

Secretary Melon said frankly there was no excuse for holding up the regulations and he admitted that the brewers, if they elected, could be succesful through mandamus procedings, in forcing the treasury to put regulations into operation.

Revenue Commissioner Blair today saw that the drys were hopelesly divided and that their apparent hostility to any medification of the Volstead bill would only prolong the fight in congress into endless struggle.

He decided to affix his signature at once, to the beer regulations and they will go out in a day or two, giving full authority to brewers to manufacture medical beer with a "kick" and to sell it to wholesale and retail druggists.

A delegation from Toronto, Canada, also anxious to be host next year, paraded to convention headquarters this morning led by a Highland band, clad in the traditional "kilts" of Scotland.

The day's program includes meeting of committees and registration. Official sessions of the main convention begin at 10 o'clock tomorrow The convention will last until Friday.

LEWIS' HAT IN RING DECLARE HIS BACKERS

Will Remain Until Mine Leader Breaks His Silence

BIG CAMPAIGN ON

Irish Fight Waxes Hot As the Convention Proceeds.

Denver, June 20—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today officially announced his candidacy for president of the American Federation of Labor.

Denver, Colo., June 20.—Supports of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who is being boomed to succeed Samuel Gompers as president of the American Federation of Labor, served notice today that his hat is in the ring, to remain until he breaks his silence and removes it.

The most important development is open acknowledgement by men close to Gompers that a big campaign is on to elect the miners' head and considerable worry is being caused in the Gompers camp as a result. Hitherto, they declared the Lewis talk "mere poppycock."

Electioneering is the big business of the hotel lobbies, where the delegates to the convention gather. It has crowded even the Irish question into the background.

Charges and counter charges filled the air. The one most frequently heard is that publicity representatives whose salaries are paid out of funds in the federation, have influenced, or have attempted to influence newspaper correspondents, to suppress news about the attempt to oust Gompers and to nurse along rumors that it is "hot air" amanating from an eminent publisher and other outside sources.

Today Gompers boosters are claiming that if the election was held at once, the veteran labor leader would win by a majority of 5,000 votes. No important measures now before the resolutions committee will come before the convention today, according to James Duncan its chairman.

Hearings will be held by the committee during the day on the Irish resolutions and the measure introduced by the railroad unions demanding a program of legislative action applying the principle of government ownership and democratic control of the railroads to all the basic industries.

The Irish fight waxes hotter as a result of the action of the majority of the original signers of the resolution, providing for a boycott on all British made goods in petitioning the resolutions committee for permission to withdraw it. The nine or ten delegates whose names remain on the resolution, declared that it cannot be withdrawn, and have served notice that they will demand its submission to the convention and a roll call vote.

Of the cities competing for the next convention, Birmingham, Ala., seems to be in the lead, with Fort Worth, Texas, its strongest rival.

After the convention adopts the executive council's resolution, it will be left to that body to select the next meeting place of the federation.

CONFERENCE TO DECIDE FUTURE OF JAP TREATY

Call Imperial Meeting at London Starting Monday.

ISSUES IMPORTANT

British Possessions To Discuss Questions Now Up.

London, June 20.—The form in which the Anglo-Japanese treaty of alliance is renewed — if it is renewed at all— will be determined in the imperial conference, which opened here today For a month, the premiers of England, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa will discuss questions of policy affecting the British empire. India will have representation in the sessions.

The initial session of Premier Lloyd George and the delegates from the British overseas dominions, was held at 10 Downing Street but it is understood that later conference will be shifted to St. James palace.

The chief questions which will come before the conference are:

1—The Anglo-Japanese reaty of alliance.

2—Disarmament and the part the overseas dominions shall play in "naval police" duty.

3—New air routes to link the component parts of the British empire and bring them closer together by means of aerial navigation.

4—Trade relations between the dominions and the mother country.

5—Means of strengthening the ties between the home land and the dominions.

6—Imperial postal rates.

Among the English cabinet members in addition to Premier Lloyd George, was Austen Chamberlain, who succeeded oBnar Law as government leader in commons; Colonial Minister Winsion Churchill; A. J. Balfour, lord president of the council ,and E. S. Montague, secretary for India.

The session was secret but it was stated that a communique would be issued at 4 o'clock containing the "high lights" of Premier Lloyd George's opening speech on British policy.

TURKISH SHIPS SUNK BY GREEK BOATS AT SEA

Many Small Craft Destroyed On Black Sea Coast.

PEACE IMPOSSIBLE

Trouble Between Greece Turks Must Be Settled By War.

Athens, June 20.—Many small crafts, which were discharging arms for the Turkish nationalists were sunk by Greek warships at Inedoli (Treboli) on the Black Sea coast near Trebizond, according to the following communique issued here today:

"A Greek squadron demanded the delivery of 40 launches that were discharging war materials at Inedoli. Surrender was refused by the Turks. Following the evaucation of the town by the civilians, the Greek squadron began a bombardment. Many launches and two coastwise ships were sunk. Warehouses containing war supplies were destroyed. The Turkish battery defending the town was silenced."

Official circles are opposed to the suggestion of the allies that the Greeks halt their offensive until the allies can mediate, in an effort to arrange peace between Greece and Turkey.

London, June 20.—The Near East issue between Greece and Nationalist Turkey must be settled on the field of battle and not in the peace chamber according to a Smyrna telegram to the Daily Telegraph today, quoting Dr. Stratos, an official of the Greek government. Dr. Strates has just arrived at Smyrna at the head of a Greek parliamentary committee, which is going to the Front. Dr. Stratos was quoted as saying:

"Mediation is not acceptable. We cannot yield Thrace and Smyrna. The only solution is by force of arms. A military offensive is necessary to bring the Turks into a more reasonable state of mind.

"Greece has a diplomatic object in view. The military check at Eski-Shehr impressed diplomatic circles in London and Paris. The political effect must be redeemed. Europe will change its view only when the military situation is changed."

The military correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in commenting on the results of the Anglo-French negotiations in Paris, pointed out the dangers attending a collapse of the Greek army. The correspondent said:

"The advisability was discussed of an immediate offer of mediation, first to the Greeks, then to the Turks, to Mustapha Kemal Pasha (head of the Turkish nationalists) as well as the sultan.

"Rome would welcome any formula from London and Paris which would further English adhesion. But what really matters is the prospect of securing acceptance of good will by Angora and Athens."

LOCAL MERCHANTS SIGN FOR BOOTH SPACE IN FESTIVAL

Letters sent out by the Chamber of Commerce to merchants who have not yet signed up for booth space in the big Fall Festival, to be held here the latter part of August and the first of September, have been fraught with results.

Many local merchants have sent in their requests for space, according to Secretary F. J. Slackford. Indications are now that the Festival will be much bigger and better than those engineered entirely by local business men several years ago.

One of the most interesting features of Festival week will be the automobile parade, according to the plans for such a novelty, which are being carried out by the Festival Production Company of Chillicothe, which company is staging the local Festival. Prizes will be offered for the best decorated automobiles and floats, and competent judges will be selected from among Xenia business men to decide on the awards.

POLICE TAKE PRECAUTIONS TO PREVENT RECURRENCE OF FATAL RIOT AT HAVANA

Havana, June 20. — Extraordinary precautions were taken today by police to prevent a recurrence of the riot at the funeral yesterday of former president Gomez in which thre persons are known to have been killed and scores injured by bullets from the revolvers of policemen.

Eyewitnesses stated today that among the dead and seriously injured were a 9-year old boy and three woman all of whom were shot down by police when the frenzied mob attempted to force its way into the cemetery in an effort to seize and embrace the dead warrior's body.

According to government officials, the action of the police in firing upon the mob was participated by an armed group of the rioters, who had fired at the police during the rush against the cemetery gates.

New Spring Styles

By Mercedes Devries-Schmit.

And now let us turn our attention to the spring suit. Every single day brings us a new and most often charming version of the 1921 models.

It seems to me that the sensible, conservatice, severe-looking English tailored suit is "passe." We see now and we welcome with the striking "couturiere" creations. Parsion suits are essentially femine and for this reason, so becoming to most of us.

In these imported models the skirts are decidedly longer—mind you. I don't say long—but longer.

Some suits, many of them are beautifully embroidered. Lovely wonderful patterns appear. A beautiful dark blue suit has a motif of triangles worked in tarnish gold thread. Lattice work of squares covers sometimes the entire surface of the material. Many of the new jackets reach almost down to the very bottom of the skirt, while others on the other and, are quit sort. The reeingote with its semi-gtted lines is also in evidence, as they say in Paris, 'ilypu 'aenu pboth...1angleh,ii Paris, "il y en a pour tous les gouts."

Removable Collars.

Very smadt the large removable cape collors made of the material itself. These short capes, very popular last season, proved so becoming and practical that many elegantes insist on adopting them again this Spring,, hence their renewed success.

The skirts of the new tailleurs are are all simple and almost always absolutely plain—if there is any trimming it is to be found on the jacket.

Very smart the new models of crepe de chine. One of the most charming creations designed this season is of gray crepe de chine trimmed with dull embroidery. The skirt has narrow pin tucks on each side. The jacket girdle. The sleeve is long and narrow and is trimmed with a small cuff of cire gray satin, this same cire satin forms the flat collar and the revers of the jacket.

A Chain Belt.

Another model is made of blue poiret twill. The coat simulates triangles by an all-over embroidery of black chenile silk, while the skirt is absolutely plain, showing the new circular lines so much in evidence just now. The sleeves rather narrow at the top, show a tendency to width from the elbow down to the wrist.

A chain of heavy steel forms the girdle. With this suit is worn a huge jabot of ecru lace.

A very new tailleur which seems to take its inspiration from Persia is made in champagne gabardine. The jacket is cut with sharply flaring skirts and is trimmed with yellow and brown cire braid. The uppe part of this jacket is exceedingly snug and fastens in the middle of the front with self-covered buttons. This model is decidedly youthful, although a bit eccentric.

And now a word of advce.

Remember before being tempted to buy a beige or a gray suit, no matter how smart and becoming it may be, that navy blue our old standby ever-faithful friend, is by far the most satisfactory color if real service and wear are to be exacted of the tailored suit. lsotolsrriss dtripssrrlleda",Collieer is trimmed with the same fine pin tucks and belted with a fancy silver

BEAUTY CHATS

by EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

Ky. Boy.—Growing boys are often troubled as you are and their skins improve in a few years, however you may hasten the improvement yourself. I know of one boy of 20 who overcame this tendency to pimples by taking two yeast cakes each day, dissolved in a half glass of water. Take one at night and the other in the morning. You probably eat as you shouldn't and nature has this way of throwing it off.

Reader—To reduce the hips, stand erect, hands clasped around waist or either side. Slowly sink into a position as if you were about to seat yourself on an imaginary stool, letting the knees separate and spread out, with the feet firmly on the ground and the back straight and head erect. Hold this position an instant then rise. Sepeat several times.

Take this same position and vary the exercise by lifting the heels and rest the weight on the balls of the feet, then lower the body until you are seated on the heels. Rest an instant and rise, repeating sexercise several times.

High School Lass.—Steaming takes the shine from serge. It will also take the curl out of your velvet ribbons. With the former, place the article flat on the board, brush out all dust and cover the serge with a very damp clean piece of muslin Press by running the iron over the muslin, but stop the work while the muslin is still damp, then brush the nap of the serge while it is still steaming.

The ribbon should be dampened on the back and pulled across the surface of the iron. This steams the nap making it rise and also flattens out the ribbons as if it were new.

Toasts are not necessary at your banquet, and unless they are brilliant, they detract from the occasion.

Pinkie—You will find plenty of suggestions for furnishing if you consult the magazines that specialize on the subject. In the furniture departments of the big stores, there are usually sample rooms to be seen. Only a few choice toilet articles should have any place on the dressing table or chiffonier.

Brown Eyes—Powdered pumice rubbed into these warts will remove them. If they are large, tie white silk around each one, until it dries up and drops off .

Anita—A good cream will not grow hair. If you use the cleansing cream and remove it there is no need for soap . Your skin probably does not require much feeding, so you should use only a small amount of the good cream. The treatment is cleansing and the surplus cream should be removed with moist cloths wrung from hot water. Follow with the good cream, remove surplus, then dash very cold water over the sikn. Ice is preferable. After such a cleansing the night before only cold water need be used the following morning.

Grey Eyes—Either response is correct., Offering the hand when introduced depends on circumstances. It is more gracious and friendly and should be done when this attitude is to be shown in the meeting; but the simple bow is more convenient among a number of people assembled together. It is also more formal.

Tomorrow—Cutting the Cuticle.

YOUR TEETH

There are certain people noted for the beauty of their teeth and other equally well known for the ill-health of their teeth. If you will study the history of these peoples a bit you will find invariably that those with good teeth live on hard foods which require much chewing. an contain comparatively little starch, and that the most highly civilized nations are frequently those with the worst teeth.

English people, generally, have poor teeth and hate dentists. American people are inclined to have poor teeth but probably take better care of them than any other nation in the world. An "American dentist" can command almost any price in foreign countries.

We Americans, and by that I mean both the States and Canada, are inclined to eat too much starch and too many soft foods. Our teeth literally do not get enough exercise, and as starch ferments in the mouth decay sets in at an early age.

It is absolutely necessary to visit a good dentist every six months or even oftener, for the teeth become coated with tartar, this tartar gets under the gums, irritates them, eventually causes little puss cells and by its irritation causes the gums to shrink, and pyorhoea sets in. Then the teeth loosen and drop out.

If the teeth are kept absolutely clean by brushing them at least twice a day much of this can be avoided. But only a dentist can get off the tartar under the gums.

Anxious Eleanor.—Your anemia causes the pimples. They will disappear as you build up the quality of your blood. Your weight is correct.

Perplexed.—Your yellow skin comes from a sluggish liver. You can help it by drinking more water and eating plenty of fruit, green vegetables and salads, which can be made from dandelion leaves.

The cold cream is used first, as it softens the skin, preparing it for the treatment. Ice always completes treatment, as it closes the pores.

H. P. T.—You can reduce that fleshiness under the arms by rolling the arms in the shoulder sockets and describing a circle with the hands. Take the exercise first with one arm, then the other one, finally, roll both at the same time. Begin it with a slow motion and increase until the arms whirl around as if they were wheels.

MASKET BASKET.

By Jessie Wetzel Knott

Spring and Summer should bring a readjustment and simplifying of many of the routine tasks of the household, and an entirely new schedule of meal planning, so that we can have more time outdoors and to entertain our guests.

In most families the seavy meal of the day is in the evening, and it is a problem to prepare this meal without spending a good deal of time at the task But these Spring and Summer afternoons are too precious to let slip away while we are housed in the four walls of a kitchen. The ready-to-serve meal and the one piece meal will go far to solve the problem.

Ready-To-Serve Foods.

It is amazing how much the markets have to offer in the way of ready-to-serve meals. You can find something for every course of the meal from soup to dessert. There are boullon, gumbos, broths and consommes, and any number of cream soups, which can be prepared in an an instant A dash of seasoning gives a "home-made" taste.

Then there are salmon and tuna fish, sardines and the more expensive lobster and crab meats. Do not serve these plain, but make a white sauce highly seasoned with salt, peper and paprika and cayenne pepper, and add a few capers, chopped olives or a teaspoonful of Worcester sauce. Crisp buttered toast, or hard boiled eggs, make a pleasant addition to these creamed dishes.

Sometimes I make up some baking powder biscuit, split them and put the creamed fish between and on top.

Cooked meat comes in many varieties. Ham, corned beef and tongue all have great possibilities for quickly prepared dishes. Sliced and served cold with a peppery relish they are very palatable.

However, ready-to-serve meals will not solve the problem entirely There must be careful planning, as well. Set the table for dinner as you are clearing away the luncheon dishes and then cover it with a nice clean tea cloth. With your menu planned and the materials at hand so that no time will be wasted hunting for various things, the vegetables washed and put in the ice box, salad dressing made and ready, you will be surprised how the meal seems to fly together when you start to prepare it

STATE CHARGES THAT "KISSING BLOND" CAUSED MRS. ORTHWEIN TO SHOOT LOVER

Mrs. Cora C. Orthwein, taken before the trial started.

Mrs. Cora Orthwein is on trial in Chicago for the killing of Herbert P. Zeigler, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company executive, in her apartment after a night of revelry at various Chicago resorts. The state in its opening statement charged that Mrs. Orthwein killed Zeigler because Zeigler left her for Mrs. Charlotte Lewinsky, known as "the kissing blond." Mrs. Orthwein says she shot in self defense.

Health Talks

By John B. Huber, A.M.,M.D

Oh holiest health, all other good excelling!—GREEK HYMN.

CONSUMPTION IS A HOUSE DISEASE

The Sisters of Mercy at the Hospital for Consumptives in New York City come in contect with consumptives day and night, constantly. They dwell in the same rooms with them, make their beds, keep night vigils over them, prepare their meals, handle their clothing. Yet in thirty years, as far back as the record goes—not one of these noble women has died of consumption.

In the Trudeau Sanatorium at Saranac Lake all the dust in a room occupied by consumptive patients, was gathered together, a culture made from it, and the serum injected into a guinea pig. The creature's health remained unimpaired.

I cite these instances to prove that much of the fear of "catching consumption" among people generally is groundless, if those suffering from the affliction are cleanly. And the most important phase of this cleanliness is to hold a handkerchief before the face in coughing or sneezing, and properly to dispose of the sputum.

This advice applies to more persons than you would suppose. Cleanliness is not only a necessaryhabit in all human beings, but it is particularly so with regard to tuberculosis; because every fourth person between 15 and 45 suffers in a degree from tuberculosis, whether they know it or not. Tuberculosis is a house disease, contracted usually in workshops or dwellings where uncleanly tuberculous persons have dwelt.

What Paris Is Wearing

Very smart the new evening capes of taffeta with a deep yoke fitting the shoulders snugly and the waist part made with two wide flounces in front with the help of narrow velvet ribbon.

Gay plaided gingham trimmed with a bit of crisp organdie seems to be the favorite combination for the making of the ideal "garden dress."

The cape is more than ever in favor.

CLEAN SUEDE SHOES

Dear Mrs. Buchanan: Will it injure suede shoes to brush the dust out of them with a clothes brush? Name some preparation to keep them clean.

No, an old clothes brush is very good to keep to brush the dust from your suede shoes. There are several good preparations on the market which will keep suede shoes clean. I have a little steel brush I use to raise the nap again after I clean them. It is well to have your suede shoes cleaned for you once in a while.

DYEING CROCHET WORK

Dear Mrs. Buchanan: I have crocheted a rather large edging for a piano scarf in white mercerized thread and wonder if I can die it gree either with dye or ink. M. M.

If you are careful you can dye it. Use the boil dyes, not ink. I once started to make an elaborate center piece and when it was about three-fourth finished found I couldn't match the thread, which was a peculiar shade of sand. I finished it in a lighter shade and dyed it deep brown. It came out beautifully.

BABY'S BATH

How old should the baby be before the daily bath is discontinued?

It should not be discontinued, I think. If a child is given a daily sponge the adult will always take it, as it tends to health, and if I were you I would keep right on with the daily bath until the child is old enough to take it for himself.

CANDIED ORANGE PEEL

Dear Mrs. Buchanan: I have found "Woman and the Home" of great use to me, especially the recipes and household hints, but I have never noticed a recipe for candied orange peel. Will you kindly print one in your column? J. C.

I like candied orange peel crisp, without the soft white portion of the peel left on. I boil the orange peeling for three hours and then with a spoon scrape ever bit of the white away and cut the yellow rind into strips.

Make a syrup of granulated sugar and water and the tiniest bit of salt and add the orange peel. When it has become so thick that you are sure that in another second the syrup will crystallize back into sugar, pour out on a platter on which is spread some granulated sugar. As it becomes cool, stir through the mixture with a fork and the strips of orange peel will come apart as the sugar hardens. Various amount of sugar of course are necessary for different amounts of peeling. After you have made it once you will be able to judge correctly. The first time you will probably make more syrup than you need.

STRAWBERRY JAM

I want a good recipe for strawberry jam. Will you please give me one?. MRS. C. A.

All berry jams are made alike if you make genuine jam. That is, allow three-fourths of a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Crush the berries after they are hulled and washed, then stir in the sugar. Jam like jelly should be boiled hard and fast. When jam is done it will give the same test as is required for finished jelly. That is, when a little is cooled in a spoon for a few minutes it will not pour from the side of the spoon but will flake off in a sheet. Seal in hot sterilized jelly glasses and when cold cover with hot meted paraffin.

NATURE STUDY BOOKS

So many requests have come in for the books for nature study that I have asked Mrs. C. to send me the list she used. She writes to me:

"The splendid little books that helped me to become acquainted with the birds and flowers were two of the "Pocket Nature Guides," "Land Birds," and 'Flower Guide,' by Chester A. Reed.

"Theso are not listed in the Public Library but may be purchased at the book stores for $1.25 each.

"In addition to the foregoing I used as reference books 'Bird Neighbors,' and 'Nature's Garden,' by Neltje Blanchan, which may be obtained from the library.

"The 'Pocket Nature Guides,' are the best to use in the beginning because every subject is fully illustrated. In this series there is also a 'Tree Guide' but I found sufficient research work without the trees.

"Your correspondents will find a pair of good opera or field glasses almost indispensable in studying birds and a magnifying glass is interesting to use on the flowers sometimes.

"I think I collected nearly 250 specimens of flowers in my brief walks and at the time I congratulated myself on being quite well acquainted with these lovely things. I find, though, on each visit out of town flowers that are new to me—so study of them is apparently endless.

SOCIETY

PRETTY WEDDING SOLEMNIZED SATURDAY

The marriage of Miss Hettie June Holman, to Mr. Carol Brakefield was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Trader on North King street, at seven thirty o'clock, Saturday evening, in the presence of sixty relatives and friends.

The ceremony took place in the living room before an effective decoration of palms, ferns and baskets of white hydrangeas.

Before the service Miss Eula Custis sang "All For You" and "Dawning.' The accompaniment was played by Miss Mamie Burrell.

The strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March rendered by Miss Lucille Chambliss, marked the entrance of the bride, with her maid of honor, Miss Katherine Uhl, who descended the stairs, and was met at the altar by the bridegroom. The ring service was performed, by the Rev. B. B. Uhl of the Lutheran church.

The bride was a pretty picture of girlishness in a dress of ruffled organdie and net. Her veil was held with maiden hair fern and white sweet peas. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas.

Miss Uhl was most attractive in a dress of orchid colored organdie with lace trimming. She carried sweetheart roses.

Green and white were used in the decorations of the dining room. A silver basket filled with white roses and sweet peas was used as a centerpice. Candles in crystal holders with green shades were used to light the scene.

Those who were seated at the bride's table with Mr. and Mrs. Brakefild were, the Misses Katherine Uhl, Lucille Chambliss, Eula Custis, Mamie Burrell, Margaret Davis, Ruth Whittington, Laura Downs, Olivia Cost, and Messrs. Kenneth Holman and Thor Nybladh.

NEARLY 700 HEAR CONCERT SUNDAY AT LOCAL CHURCH

Between 600 and 700 people attended the concert given by the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Dayton, at the Presbyterian Church of this city on Sunday evening.

In charge of E. N. Williamson, who is famous along musical lines, and who will appear on a Chautauqua circuit during the coming summer, the choir showed unusual quality and its numbers were well received by the audience.

The concert was presented through the efforts of Mrs. J. Perry Shumaker.

The chorus composed of 45 voices rendered one of the finest sacred concerts ever heard in this city, according to those who attended the concert. The solo and chorus work were both deserving of much praise as the result of their work on Sunday evening.

Each voice in the choir is well trained, and the entire body presents at each of their concerts music of high class.

The program consisted of Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and four selected numbers. The quartette in "Stabat Mater" was sung by Miss Thekla Vollmer, soprano, Miss Mary Early, contralto, Mr. Benjamin Trainer, tenor and Mr. Eldridge Herchelrode, bass, each of whom won the highest praise of their audience.

The "Stabat Mater" chorus while of a heavy nature, was presented beautifully by the large chorus of voices. The accompaniment was played by Mrs. Krebs, who is a daughter of the late Rev. Currier, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, and a sister of Mrs. Wm. Hardman of Yellow Springs. Mrs. Krebs is rated as one of the finest organists of this part of the country.

Preceding the evening's program, the members of the choir formed a processional on King street, and marched into the church, singing, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

CHINA R. R. PLAN INCLUDES 5 NEW ROADS AND MORE CARS.

China is looking up. The Fukien Provincial Assembly is to build five roads—one, the Eastern, from Chasan to Futing, 1584 li; the second, known as the Western, from Fengshi to Kwangtseh, 1515 li; the third, known as the Central, from Nansu to Hokow, 1025 li; the fourth, known as the Southern, from Haiteng to Shanghung, 535 li, and the fifth, known as the Northern, from Fuan to Shaowu, 715 li.

A li is 1800 feet or a little more than a third of a mile. The estimate is to spend $1500 per li of road built. Considering labor costs in China, it would seem pretty good roads could be built for that amount.

"CARRYING ON."

Carrying on is more than living on. Simply to exist, even under difficult circumstances, is not particularly admirable. But to exist and smile through suffering, and distribute blessing along life's common way, and even from a sick bed to set in motion the force of a gladdening example, is praiseworthy and is worth a great deal to all of us, for we commonly get much of our inspiration from the demeanor of others.

A writer said the other day: "Whenever I sit down pen in hand to tell a story, when I want to be my best, and when I call upon my brain to shine in its fullest and most brilliant exercise, I feel dull, and I have to fight my laggard wits to keep them on the go at all."

A famous singer said: "It is a wonder if I am doing well this evening. The orchestra is as the roar of the sea in my ears; the audience is like dancing specters upon that sea. I have the grippe and a high temperature. Only my will-power enables me to appear at all. I won't give in!" Yet that singer was doing the best work her listteners had ever heard her do.

The men who fought for us over there did not ask themselves how they felt at the zero hour when the command came to go over the top. They obeyed orders. Many came out of the carnage so badly crippled that they would have had every excuse for saying: "Let me sit and wait for death. I can do nothing. I am no good." But they would not. Having been soldiers in war, they have determined to be soldiers evermore. They are determined to fight down weakness and weariness even as they faced and overcame the foe amid the shells and poison gas.

In each of us is a battlefield, on which the spirit either surrenders and hauls down the flag in craven capitulation or stands firm and gives battle to the end, in hope of victory.

CHILD BODILY GROWTH AS IMPORTANT AS MENTAL GROWTH.

In a big city which was ringing wth commencement orations and sending out thousands of graduates of the ordinary type, one little celebration was held, far behind the others in brilliancy of numbers, yet more promising than any of them. It was the graduation of a class of sixty children, from 6 to 14, who had attained a normal weight after six months' struggle with malnutrition.

These children had attended health classes at the school clinic every Saturday morning and had followed specific directions as to food, exercise and rest. They had memorized ten simple health commandments which would be valuable to them always, as would all the experiences connected with gaining their proper weight. The successful completion of their course represented rare co-operation between child and school and homme. Each graduate received a diploma, proud evidence of his victory.

Such an exhibition marks well the advance of modern education, which knows bodily growth to be as important as mental growth and fosters it accordingly.

In the elder day, the standard of scholarship was a brow "sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought," gained through a highly respected performance known as "burning the midnight oil."

The modern school noting such an one would be ashamed of him drag him from his books, prescribe a course of oatmeal and milk, send him to bed at 10 o'clock, and tell him to take a nap every day.

The wise old prophetts of the ring now figure in the daily news, and they explain, like everything, why Carp will win or why he'll lose. These seventh sons of seventh sons are always here to guide us right, whenever pugilistic ones are scheduled for a drastic fight. The mantle of Elipah falls upon the wise men of the ring, and every dead game sport recalls that prophet-eering has its sting. For if the prophets all unite to say that Jack will win the scrap, and Jack is beaten in the fight, how shall each prophet save his map? The prophets told me, years ago, that Willard had a lead pipe cinch, and after seven rounds or so, poor Jack would be too dead to pinch. And so I wagered all my means, according to teh prophets' rede, and when the winners got their beans my bank account was gone to seed. The prophets said, in days of old, that Corbett was the prince of blows, and he would knock Fitzsimmons cold, among Nevada's ghastly snows. And so, to bet on Jim's success, I put my watch and cow in soak; conceive my subsequent distress—I never was so badly broke. I shall not bet on Jack or Carp, no matter what the prophets say; while they predict I'll tune my harp, and spring a mad and merry lay.

THAT HOLE IN THE GOVERMENT "CHANGE POCKET"

1901--Twenty Years Ago--1921

Mr. Charles Darlington who is taking a course in law at the Cincinnati law school, has arrived home for his summer vacation.

The Panhandle now has all its tracks laid across the Wilmington pike and the work of completing them will be pushed. It will be a big improvement in the way of handling the freight in this city.

Mr. Wilbur O. Maddux has a slightly sprained ankle and was shaken up in a very lively manner as the result of a runaway on West street, yesterday afternoon.

The venerable Edward Everett erary and philanthropic gentleman accompanied by his daughter, arrived in Xenia yesterday afternoon. They were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Broadstone on that day, and in the evening were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Dean of east of town. Mr. Hale addressed a large audience at the opera House, Thursday night.

Mr. Charles Kelble has installed the electric fan system to keep his customers cool while inspecting his fine line of stock.

Proofs

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

In the "tables" of the seventh grade school boy, 100 cents make one dollar. And in the minds of practically everybody a dollar's equivalent is 100 cents—in money, in values.

The fact of the matter is, however, that in recent years at least nothing has been so fickle as the value of a dollar.

Gauged by the amount of merchandise it would purchase—and that is the real standard of measurement—its value shrunk and shrunk until it reached nearer the relative value of 33 cents than 100 cents.

The causes of the shrinkage were the result of war measures and methods and was as inevitable as the abnormal conditions which war produces.

But that is an old and well-known story. A later and more interesting one is that which tells how, the causes having in large measure been removed, business conditions are rapidly becoming normal and the dollar of the wise shopper is acquiring its full 100 cents face value.

Notice please, it is the wise shoppers who are getting full value for their dollars, and they are doing it by the simple expedient of following the buying suggestions in the advertising columns.

In the business readjustments which have been taking place the merchants and the manufacturers of the country have shown a very sincere desire to do their part and they have co-operated—are still co-operating—in the most practical way by making price concessions on all lines of merchandise.

Obviously they have used the advertising columns of the newspapers and the magazines to spread this price news, and those men and women have profited most who have read advertising most faithfully.

Do you belong to that class? If not then it is your duty to join it.

Whether you spend your own earned dollars or are the custodian of your husband's purse, you should read advertising for the sake of the bette. values it enables you to obtain and the economies it helps you to effect.

If there be any reader of this newspaper who still thinks that a dollar will not do its full 100 cents buying duty, let him turn through the pages of this issue and study thoughtfully the advertised articles in these columns. He will find ample proof that it will.

He can convince himself also that prices are down and that quality is assured.

Indeed one of the finest offices of advertising is its guarantee of quality. When a merchant or manufacturer identifies his name with an advertised article of merchandise, you may be sure that it is all that the advertiser claims for it. It is business suicide to misrepresent merchandise.

Upon you—the buyer—therefore, depends the value of your dollar. Spent thoughtlessly and without knowledge of where it will do its fullest duty, its purchasing power will shrink. Spent under the wise direction of advertising, it will bring you in return a full 100 cents' worth of quality merchandise.

TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL BOND ISSUE LOSES AT POLLS SATURDAY BY VOTE OF 181 TO 79; ABOUT ONE FIFTH CAST BALLOTS

With only about one-fifth of a normal vote cast, showing a general indifference toward the movement, the proposition to issue $28,000 worth of bonds in Xenia township school district for the purpose of establishing a township high school in this city, was defeated Saturday, the vote being 79 "yes" and 181 "No."

The total votes cast were 260. The normal vote in Xenia township is 1,300 which dducting about 1,000 votes included in Xenia city school district, leaves about 1,200 votes in the township school district, which would be considered normal. No reason for the apparent lack of interest in the proposition can be given by those back of the movement.

The vote by precincts was as follows:

Xenia South Precinct:

Yes	No	Total Vote
28	66	94

Xenia North Precinct:

Yes	No	Total Vote
51	115	166

The proposition was brought to a special election by action of the Xenia township board of education, who claimed that the tuition the board paid for students attending Central High school was too high, and further that the township was getting none of the school funds from the state, which are based on the number of pupils educated.

It was the proposition of the board to purchase the chapel building of the Xenia Theological Seminary group with $25,000 of the bond issue and the use the other $3,000 to equip the new school. It was expected that about $5,000 would be saved from tuition now paid for students at Central high and that $3,000 more would be available from the state disposition of school funds, making $8,000 to keep up the school.

The county and city boards of education opposed the measure on the ground that plans for Central High had been changed to be more advantageous for country students following an agreement reached between the county and city boards that county students would be sent to the city school.

CADETS ON LONG END OF SCORING

The O. S. & S. O. Home Cadets defeated a pick-up team from Xenia 17-6, at the Home Diamond, Saturday afternoon.

The Xenia team used four pitchers Randall, McDonald, Regan and Clark, all trying their ability on the mound, and one of them being hit very hard. The Home lads collected seven hits off the four pitchers, the pick-up outfit making some misplays which aided the Cadets in their run-getting.

The Xenia aggregation was unable to get anyone around for the first four innings but they started things in the fifth when Yeakley broke the ice by knocking a home run into left field scoring Clark ahead of him. The Home collected four runs in the sixth and three in the seventh. The game was only a seven inning affair by agreement. The Cadets will travel to Springfield July 2, to play the Pythian Children's Home. The lineup: Xenia—E. Leahey ss; Schwab, Cowan c; Hurley 3b; Yeakley cf; Lackey 2b; Clark lf and p; Skelly, 1b; Regan rf and p; Randall, p; McDonald p; Cadets—Sherman lf; Torrence, ss; L. Nolan, p; Brewster c; Turney 2b; Braun 1b; Marsh rf; C. Nolan, Brown 3b; Lewis cf. The score:

Xenia	0 0 0 0 2 3 1	6	4 7

TRINITY M. E. CHURCH ASK PASTOR'S RETURN

At the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, held Wednesday evening, June 15, a large number were present and splendid reports from all departments were given.

A unanimous request was made at the meeting for the return of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. W. F. Brown, and the district superintendent, Dr. M. A. Wiant.

"The relations between Dr. Brown and his people have been most delightful and the result has been that Trinity Church, has taken on new activity under the pastorate of Dr. Brown," church officials say.

It was decided at the meeting that nothing should be done at the coming annual conference to disturb the relations and the District Superintendent was thus instructed.

FAMOUS Cheap Store

Gazette and Republican's News Pictorial Page

PASSING OF FAMOUS N. Y. SITE—THE CURB MARKET

The Curb Market on Board St., just below Wall St., New York City, th spot where daily for the past thirty-five years the hectic flourishing of fingers, has meant the exchange of millions of dollars, will be no longer, for on July 10 the New York Curb Brokers' Association will move into their newly erected building and thereafter all trading will be done indoors. The passing of the Curb Market will be a blow to New York's financial district inasmuch as it brought thousands of sightseers every day to watch the mad waving of hands which meant nothing to them and so much to others. The photograph shows the Curb Market in action. In the background can be seen the columns of the Subtreasury Building.

THOUSANDS MOURN AS COLONEL GALBRAITH IS BURIED

His last parade. The body of Colonel Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, on a gun caisson, escorted by boys who served under him in France, passing through the streets of Cincinnati to the cemetery, where the coffin was placed in a vault preparatory to burial in Arlington National Cemetery. Col. Galbraith was killed in an automobile accident in Indianapolis last Thursday. Thousands paid homage to the dead soldier as the body lay in state in the Music Hall in, Cincinnati, his home city.

COLLECTING A $300 KISS —FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE.

Three hundred dollars for a kiss! That is what Frank C. Henderson of New York and Oklahoma paid to kiss Sigrid Holmquist, the "Mary Pickford of Sweden," at the Italian Garden Party given at the Henderson estate at Roslyn, Long Island, for the benefit of the Free Milk for Italy Fund. Miss Holmquist auctioned off the kiss, and Mr. Henderson 'though his wife was present) bid up to $300 and collected, as the photo shows. The money of course, went to the fund.

BRITISH WAR VETERAN LIVES WITH BULLET IN HEART

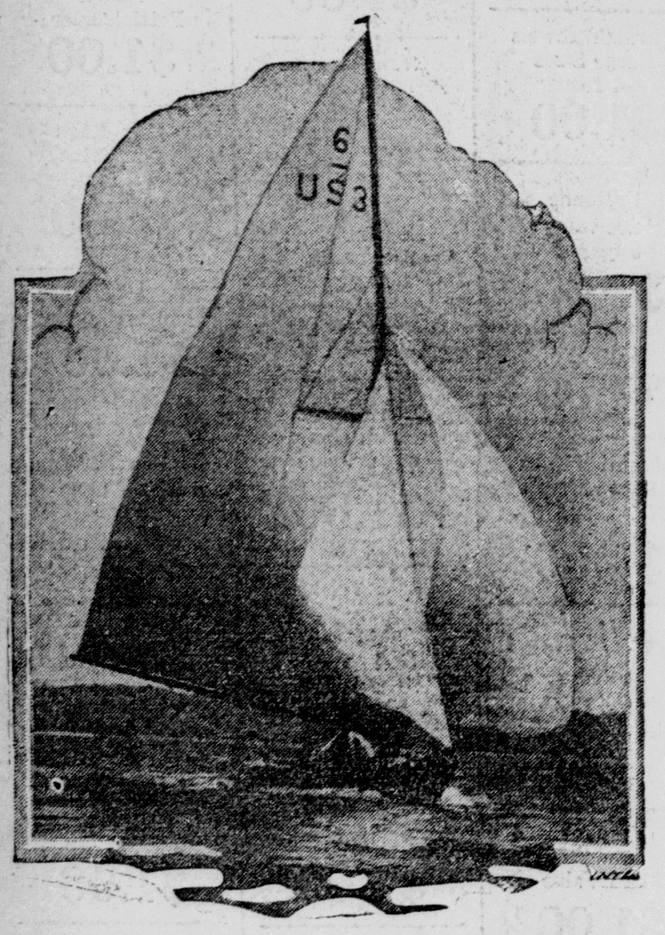
OHIO CONGRESSMANO SMOKES FORMER EMPEROR'S $2,000 PIPE.

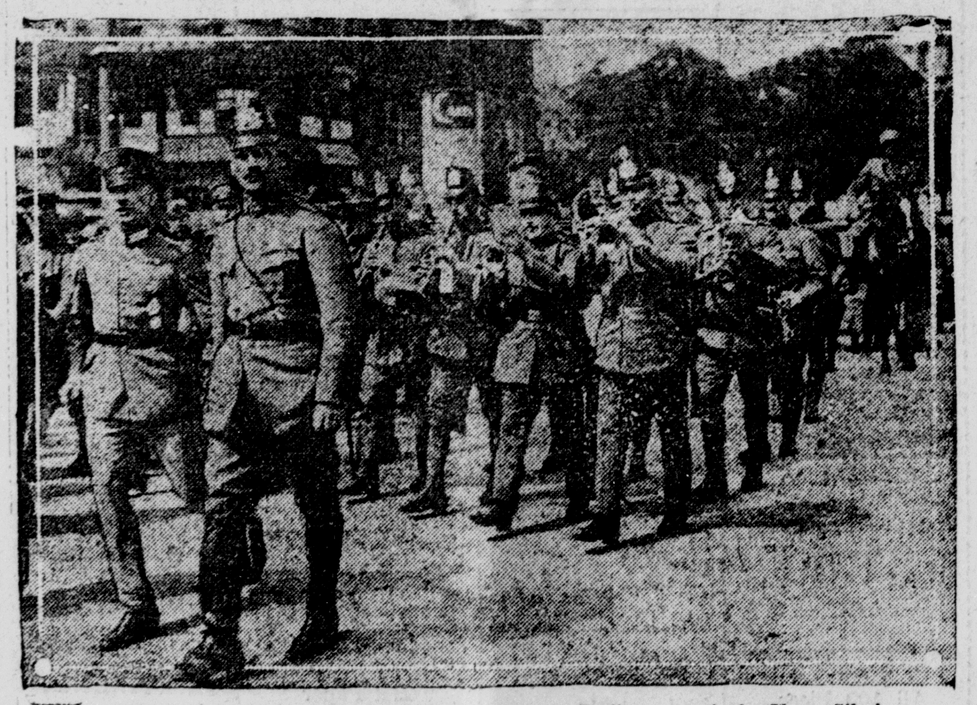
Representative Roy C. Fitzgerald, of Dayton, Ohio, photographed in his office in Washington while taking a few puffs from a $2,000 meerchaum pipe once owned by the late Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. The pipe, said to be one of the most remarkable specimens of meerchaum carving in the world, is owned by L. O. Shank, of Dayton. There are nine figures on the pipe illustrating the experiences of eight youths with their first try at clandestine tobacco smoking. Several of them exhibit the different degrees of nausea, while the ninth, a little girl is tugging at her brother's coat. He unable to stand upright, is being embraced by the leader of the "gang."

MAY BE U. S. CONTENDER IN INTERNATIONAL RACE



The Grebe, designed by John Gardiner and owned by a syndicate, will most likely represent the United States in the six meter yacht race for the British-American cup, to be contested off Cowes in August. The Grebe, shown in the photograph, has captured most of the preliminary races being contested in Oyster Bay, L. I.

GERMANY PLACES SECURITY POLICE IN SILESIA



Regiment of security police marching to station in Berlin to entrain for Upper Silesia.

As German officials threatened to do, they have placed several regiments of security police in various sections of Upper Silesia to enforce Germany's claim.. to those sections and prevent revolts. The British government has agreed to the plan of Premier Briand of France to name a commission to study fixation of boundaries of Upper Silesia. Residents of the district some time ago voted overwhelmingly to join Germany instead of Poland.

"YOU AIN'T SEEN NO HARD LUCK"

If you are sorry for yourself—if the whole works are wrong and the world is dark and dreary—look at this picture and cheer up. In the Massachusetts Hospital School they call him "Sunny "Jack" Guiney. Study the picture, and you will know why. The other day his team, every member of which is a cripple, played ball at Franklin Park, Boston, and "Sunny Jack" did the honors from the slab. Here is a picture of the cheery-looking fellow photographer during the play, while pitching a hot one over the plate.

Armenian Diplomat Here To Thank America for Aid

Grabiel Noradounghian, vice-president of the Armenian Mission to the Peace Conference, who recently arrived in New York from Europe. He is here to thank the American people through President Harding for the aid given to his stricken country.

Editor Names Governor of Alaska

Scott C. Bone, a former Seattle publisher who was publicity manager for the Republican national Committee in the 1920 campaign has been nominated by President Harding to be Governor of Alaska. Mr. Bone was formerly editor-in-chief of the Seattle Post Intelligencer and for a time was chairman of the Alaska bureau of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. One of the considerations which, it is understood, caused President Harding to make the appointment is Mr. Bone's wide experience with problems of newsprint paper and wood pulp, which industries the administration expects to develop extensively from the Alaskan raw material.

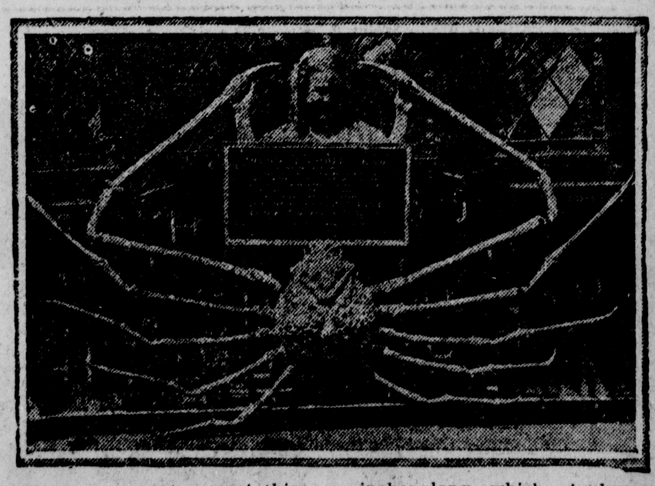
What Does the Future Hold for Him?

A new portrait of Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of the former Crown Prince of Germany. Prince Wilhelm who is now 15 years old, is living with his mother, ex-Crown Princess Cecile, in Berlin. It is said that should Germany ever become a monarchy that Prince Wilhelm would in all probability be placed on the throne.

TO PAINT PRESIDENT'S PORTRAIT

H. A. Rosko, prominent artist of New York City, has been granted the privilege of painting a portrait of President Harding and the President poses for him a few minutes every day whenever he can spare the time. The photograph shows the President posing for Mr. Rosco at the White House.

MAMMOTH SEA-CRAB CAPTURED



If you were to meet this Kaempferi") while in bathing it is very evident that your afternoon's pleasure would be over. Thi enormous cdustacean, the largest crab ever caught is estimated to be more than 500 years old. The front claws of the crab are each fifty five inches long, which is longer than the entire length of six-year old Rita Rogan, shown in the photograph. The monster is on exhibition at the Nicholas Restaurant One Hundred and Seventy-eighth street and St. Nicholas avenue, New York City. The giant crab was caught in the Yellow Sea last winter.

DINNER STORIES

Plaisantin offered in payment of a bill a gold piece which had a suspicious ring.

"Here, you've given me one of those false coins that the counterfeiters have just been arrested for making," said the merchant.

"Impossible," answered Plaisantin. "It is dated 1869. If it were false, surely it would have been found out before this."

"Jedge," he mumbled, "mah conscience does trouble me. Is yo' got a charge against me?"

"Why, no, uncle; I haven't any charge."

"Jedge, mah conscience suttinly am disturbin'. Yo' ain't missed a couple of yo' chickens, has yo'?"

"No, uncle, I haven't; but, even if there were a couple gone, I wouldn't know it. I never count them."

"Don' nebber count 'em? Mah-h goodness. Mah conscience am appeased. Good-day, suh, good-day."

The little country inn was picturesque but leaky. Late one night a guest rang his bell urgently, and the landlord answered.

"I say, look here!" snorted the indignant traveler, who was still in bed. "This roof's letting in the rain, and I'm drenched!"

"Very good, sir!" remarked the landlord amiably, as he retired. A few minutes later, according to Tit-Bits, he came back with a large washtub.

"This will make things right, sir," he said, still amiably. "I'll just put this on your chest; then, when it's full, ring the bell, or shout out, and I'll have another empty one ready."

The rector met the church warden just before the service the other Sunday morning, and beckoned to him.

"Mr. Grimes," he said, "we had better take up the collection before the sermon this morning."

"Very well, if you wish it," returned the church warden. "But what is your reason?"

He controlled his feelings very well, for he was very conservative and hated any innovation.

But the rector was adamant.

"I think it will be wiser," he remarked. "The fact is, I am going to preach on the subject of economy."

"Grace's husband has insured himself for $50,000."

"The selfish brute! He ought to be shot!"

Two Swedes were walking along the railroad track one day—the next day the coroner was holding an inquest. Petersen was testifying. "Ole and me walked along the track. I hear the whistle blow and I get off the track. The train goes by; I go on the track again and walk along. Pretty soon I see Ole's hat. I walk farther and then I see Ole's leg. Pretty soon I see Ole's other leg. Then, after a while, I see Ole's head, and then I say: 'By Jinks, something muster happen to Ole!'"

"And, oh, John, I saw the loveliest hat for only eighty-seven dollars!"

"When are they going to deliver it?"

GOVERNOR CANCELS PAROLE ON PROTEST OF AMERICAN LEGION

Little Rock, Ark.—"Uncle Tom" Adkisson, sixty-three, illiterate ring leader of Arkansas' draft resisters, has been returned to the State prison to complete a two-and-a-half-year term for manslaughter, Governor McRae recently paroled the aged mountaineer for good behavior, but following protestations of former service men and citizens the Governor cancelled the parole.

Adkisson as the leader of a determined band of mountaineers who staged a ten-day battle in the hills near Hober Springs in July, 1918, when Federal authorities began a round-up of this States's 30,000 alleged draft evaders.

Hardy Adkisson, twenty-five and Bliss Adkisson, twenty-six, sons of the old man, were within the draft age. The registration board denied them exemption on the ground that they had wives to support for the reason that all of the Adkissons resided together.

Barricading themselves in their home the Adkisson clan, assisted by other illiterate mountaineers, defied the Government. Two companies of machine gunners from Little Rock surrounded the home in the hills and after a ten-day battle, the draft resisters were captured. Porter Hazelwood, a deputy sheriff was shot to death by the Adkisson clan.

Bliss Adkisson, arraigned in court pleaded guilty to a murder charge and is now serving a twenty-one-year sentence. His brother Hardy, was given a two-year term.

Following a stay of execution, granted so that he might care for his family, the elder Adkisson entered the penitentiary in August, 1920, to begin a two-and-a-half year term. In May, 1921, he was paroled. The American Legion of Arkansas protested vehemently and Governor McRae ordered his rearrest and return to prison, where he is now a trusty.

SAYS U. S. IS SHORT 25,000 PHYSICIANS

Washington, June 20. — The United States is short 25,000 physicians, Dr. Roy Upham, Brooklyn, declared at the opening session of the annual convention here of the American Institute of Homeopathy. Long and arduous study required of medical students and inability to speedily build up a profitable business practice tends to discourage prospective doctors, he said.

In an effort to assist medical students, through college, wives of members of the Institute have formed the Woman's National Homeopathic League, Dr. Upham said, adding that it was hoped activities of the league would help to relieve the shortage of physicians.

AMERICAN PASTOR TO MARRY COUPLE

Paris, June 20.—When the Duke of Marlborough marries Miss Gladys Deacon next Saturday the ceremony will be performed by an American pastor especially imported for the occasion. Under the rules of the Church of England, the guilty party in a divorce cannot remarry.

On account of this, the duke failed to find a bishop or minister of his church who would perform the ceremony. The identity of the American clergyman who will wed the duke to the American sportswoman and bridesmaid for the former duchess is being kept secret.

The wedding will take place in the home of Eugene Higgins a cousin of Miss Deacon.

The duke has declared to friends that he intends to take up a permanent residence in Paris.

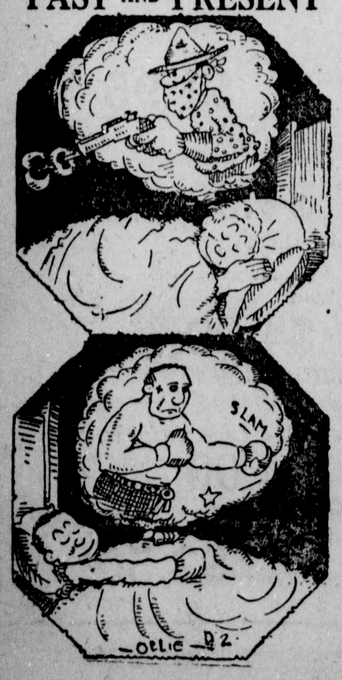
The proposed improvement is expected to cost $3,500,000.

PAST AND PRESENT



SOMEBODY GOT BABE RUTH'S GOAT, SO MARY OFFERED HIM LITTLE LAMB

Babe Ruth, Miss O'Brine and the little lamb.

Mary's little lamb, "Supreme," followed her to the Chicago White Sox ball park to see Babe Ruth knock a home run. "Supreme" was a gift to Miss Virginia Mary O'Brine, who is starring in "Mary" at one of the Chicago theaters, and was selected from among 25,000 other lambs at the stock yards. Babe did not get a home run, for evidently some one in the Windy City got Babe's goat, so Mary offered him her mascot, "Supreme," for luck.

TRACTION BILL IS KILLED

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—The Thompson traction bill, sponsored by the mayor of Chicago, was killed Saturday night just before the senate adjourned sine die. A motion to reconsider was lost, 22 to 22, after Governor Small sent a late message to the senate making a plea for the bill which provided a sort of municipal ownership.

ROCKEFELLER GOING TO CHINA

New York, June 20.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will go to China this summer it was announced to attend the dedication of new buildings at Pekin Union Medical College on Sept. 15. He will head a delegation of the trustees of the Rockefeller foundation. The buildings were erected by the China medical board of the foundation. DELINQUENT TAXES TO BE COLLECTED

Washington, June 20.— Millions of dollars in delinquent taxes and penalties will be collected, the internal revenue bureau estimates, as a result of nation-wide tax drive to begin in July by Commissioner Blair. "Flying squadrons" are to visit every large city in the country.

Special attention, Mr. Blair said, will be directed to the collection of the excise tax on sales by manufacturers, the transportation tax the so-called luxury tax and taxes on jewelry, toilet articles, proprietary medicines, soft drinks and amusements.

Several million dollars are being lost by the government annually through failure of retailers to collect the full tax on toilet articles and medicines. Soft drink vendors are to be investigated, he said, and required to keep proper records; and the recent arrests of ticket scalpers in New York will be followed by similar prosecution where theater ticket brokers fail to file monthly tax returns.

OFFICIALS PROTECT ALIENS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 17.—Gitson County officials, in spirit as well as in fact, are proceeding to give protection to foreigners in coal mining districts where a vigilantes movement last week caused 150 workers to flee from their homes, Adjutant General Harry B. Smith reported to Governor Worren TT. McGray.

AIRPLANE LINE INVADES WILDEST AFRICA

A French company has started an aero line to link Gayenne, the capital town of French Guyane, with the gold fields of Maroni of South Africa. The distance is but 260 kilometers, but the country is covered with virgin forests, and the journey ordinarily takes a week by land and sea, whereas the airplanes have made the trip in two hours. The town of Maroni is a bagnio, where the convicts are employed in the mines. The photo shows the primitive hangar built on the bank of the Maroni river. Note the group of "convicts" serving life terms.

FORECAST SHOWER OF METEORS JUNE 27 ON OLD GLOBE

London. — Pons-Winnecke, the short-period comet, which is hurtling through space at a speed of many thousand miles an hour towards the earth, will not have the best of the "bump," according to Professor A. Fowler, chief lecturer in astronomy at the Imperial Science College South Kensington.

"It is generally accepted," said the professor, "that we shall come in contact with its tail, if at all. In thi event it is possible Pons-Winnecke may become so disintegrated that other self-respecting comets will disown him."

"One can picture some scientist in a few weeks' time picking up a small meteor, the mortal remains of this cyclonic traveller in our space. "Alas, poor Pons, we knew him well!" Will be doubtless the comment of the astronomical world.

Professor Fowler was the first scientist to prove that the tails of comet have carbonic oxide gas instead of the deadly cyanogen gas, as was previously supposed.

"When the tail of Pons comes in contact with this earth," continued Professor Fowler, "vast quantities of carbonic oxide, which is an odorless gas wil be absorbed in the atmosphere of this planet. There is no cause for alarm, since the proportion of carbonic oxide is so small in relation to the immense volume of atmosphere around the earth that the effect will be imperceptible. People do not realize how many million tons the atmosphere we breath weighs. At ground level the weight is fourteen pounds to the square inch. In addition to gas the tail will contain meteoric dust—that is particles of iron and nickel. This dust is not likely to reach us.

"As to how a comet is formed I cannot tell you, any more than I can tell you, from a scientific point of view how the earth was formed. Perhaps they come from gases thrown off from the sun, which are gradually cooled. On the other hand leading authorities on astronomy say that it is clear that comets cannot have originated within the limits of the solor system. They propound the fascinating theory that comets such as Pons-Winnecke come from a distance in space so great that it is impossible to think or speak of it in terms of miles.

Professor Fowler added that Jupiter, to whose family Pons-Winnecke belongs may cause a disturbance and to alter the path of the comet that it will reach its nearest point to the earth about June 27, the date on which it is expected.

"When the public interest in Halley's comet became acute I worked out the exact date of the arrival," continued Professor Fowler "but I should be involved in laborious calculations for days on end if I were to ascertain the day which Pons will drop his visiting card in the shape of a shower of meteorites."

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

"Undecided": Do not phone the boy. He would have every reason to think you were running after him. If he were very much interested in you he would find a way to see you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nineteen years of age and have come from a town near here. While there I went with a young man of whom I thought a great deal. We were always together, but since I have come here he cares very little about me. I go there twice a week and always find him "peeved," so I try to make up with him.

He has only been to see me twice and because some of my friends take great pleasure in coming here and taking me out, he gets angry. People tell me that he is jealous of me and he doesn't want anyone else to look at me.

I surely love him and there isn't a thing that I wouldn't do for him. We have been angry at each other for two weeks and have just made up. What would you do if you were in my place? LOVESICK GIRL.

I would not advise you to center your affections on a young man who spends most of the time pouting. Such a person usually develops into a husband who goes for days without talking to his wife.

You are very young and should enjoy the companionship of various friends. Do not put yourself out to keep peace with the young man from the other town. If he wants to be friendly, respond, but when he pouts, leave him alone.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girl friends and we both go to common school. We had a very fine teacher at the first of the term and she got along fine with the scholars, but she quit her school and it almost broke our hearts. In her place they put a thing which never smiles or anything and she is there from "pull." The man who got her the position comes over and gives us a balling out about every day and we want to get through the examination, but he is so mean that we don't know what to do.

What can we do to get along better with our teacher?

BOTH ANXIOUS.

Your letter shocks me and fills me with pity for you. Instead of opening your hearts to your new teacher, you have hardened them and through your attitude of "hate" have made teaching almost impossible for her. To speak of her as a "thing" reflects upon you more than it does her.

Try to put yourselves in her place. Hasn't she been tried by the pupils until she is nervous and irritable? If you show her respect and kindness instead of contempt she will respond, I am sure, and will be a far better and kinder teacher than you can picture now. Do not be disrespectful just because the rest of the class is. Show that you are well bred and kind. When you open your hearts, your minds will respond also, and you will find your studies more interesting and that you learn more quickly.

Nothing shows commonness and lack of breeding quicker than lack of respect such as you have displayed. Get your lessons and you will pass your examinations. If you fail, do not make the ridiculous statement that your teacher "flunked" you. Be big enough to credit the failure to your own ignorance.

REALM OF BOOKS

BRIEF REVIEWS OF LITERATURE RECENTLY PLACED ON THE SHELVES OF THE COUNTY LIBRARY.

"MAIN STREET AND OTHER POEMS," and "THE CIRCUS," by Joyce Kilmer are recently published works of this much lamented late writer. The former is a collection of "Happy Songs" and the latter is a volume of essays and papers which is the last of the literary legacy of this poet and essayist.

"THE SISTERS-IN-LAW" by Gertrude Atherton is a study of San Francisco society which is brilliant, intimate and sanely satiric in its discernment of the follies, the strength, the artificiality, the justifiable pride of aristocratic tradition.

Mrs. Atherton is at her best in this novel, broad in vision, epic in the sweep of its drama from the women when Alexina Groome's woman's soul begins to expand, with the barred gates of her fool's paradise behind her, til the climax of the primative struggle of the two women for the same love.

"THE MOUNTEBANK," by Wm. J. Locke is a story of a man who is probably the most beloved of all the wonderful characters Locke has immortalized, a man born in circus tent, who lived a fun-maker's life until the great war came, who was a private at is beginning, a brigadier general at its end, who could then have married into the English artistocracy but chose honor, until fate released him, the ties that bound him to a woman who had shared his ups and downs in fortune. Only Locke could make such a man stand out as a worthy successor of the Beloved Vagabond, "Doggie" Trevor, John Baltazar—a man you love. And Locke has done it.

"GREAT AMERICAN ISSUES," by John Hays Hammond and Jeremiah W. Jenks discusses our political and economic situation under a variety of topics. These are questions which cannot be sidestepped. You will have to face them and be ready to answer them. The future of America depends upon what the answer will be. No one who has the interest of his country at heart can afford not to know what these great problems are. This book will enable you to understand them and will help you to fulfil your duties as a citizen.

RAISE $50,000,000 FOR RELIEF.

Washington, June 16.—Private bankers have agreed to raise $50,000,000 for the relief of the livestock and wool producers. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced today. New York bankers have agreed to raise half of this sum and western bankers will raise the remainder. This private financing of the livestock and wool industry will obviate the necessity for legislation appropriating $50,000,000 for this purpose, which had been prposed to congress.

TUB RACE AT A STONY LAKE RESORT

PREPARING HONEYMOON DINNER ON KAWARTHA CANOE TRIP

Ages ere the voyageur and the missionary penetrated the wilds of Ontario, Kawartha was what it is today, a summer playground. Only the original name remains to remind us that this was the "Bright Waters and Happy Lands" of the Ojibways, the Hurons, the Algonquins and other Indian tribes. Through its maze of waterways glided their birch bark canoes and on the tree-bordered shores of mainland and islands burned their camp fires.

The paddle still sings its summer song and bright colored canoes slip through the blue waters while camp fires gleam nightly in Kawartha during summer months, but it is an army of pleasure-seeking pale-faces who enjoy this pine-scented lake district today.

Kawartha embraces fourteen beautiful lakes—Scugog, Sturgeon, Cameron, Balsam, Pigeon, Bald, Sand, Buckhorn, Chemong, Deer, Lovesick, Stony, Clear and Katchewanooka. Each has its unique attractions while sandy beaches and excellent fishing are common to all. Accommodations for visitors are abundant and varied. Cottages, isolated and in colonies, and hotels ranging from simple cabin type to large, well-staffed establishments, are strewn about the shores. This is the region of summer homes, here the tired statesman builds himself a lordly retreat on some commanding site; here the busy city mother houses her kiddies in a cozy cottage and turns them loose to play in the woods and water while she enjoys a book and hammock beneath the pines.

But above all, this is the paradise of the canoeist. Paddling and drifting may be lengthened into a month-long delightful outing. A pup tent, blanket, pail, frying pan and a small supply of provisions are sufficient outfit as landings are frequent. It is quite easy to arrange one's schedule so as to eat and sleep at various resorts. Starting from Bobcaygeon on Sturgeon Lake and working toward Peterboro on the Otonobee River will take you via Oak Orchard, a very de luxe resort; Buckhorn where there are two good hotels and fine fishing; Burleigh Falls with its popular Park Hotel and cottages, and dozens of hotels and camps around Stony and Clear Lakes. Should you weary of paddling, there is always the opportunity to transfer yourself and canoe to one of the lake steamers. The fishing, bathing and dancing at the various resorts offer inducement to stop and play.

TWENTY SIX ARE INITIATED INTO K. OF C. SUNDAY

Twenty six candidates were initiated into Xenia Council, No. 1801, Knights of Columbus, at special exercises held at the knights of Pythias Castle, Detroit and Second streets, Sunday.

The exercises were among the most imposing and best attended ever held by Xenia Council, and visiting Knights were present from Dayton, Springfield, Wilmington and other Councils in this vicinity, the hall being packed for the ceremonies.

The services began at eight o'clock in the morning when the candidates, local and visiting Knights, marched to St. Brigid's Catholic church in a body, where High Mass was celebrated at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. Martin Walsh, O. P., of St. Aquinas College, Columbus.

The Rev. Walsh in his sermon dwelt on three great truths that should be the guiding points for Catholic young men. These are truthfulness, honesty and sobriety. On each of these subjects he dweit at length, explaining the virtue of honesty and justice and truth, and urging sobriety as the advice to every young man.

The first degree team of Xenia Council exemplified the first degree on the candidates at 10:30 o'clock at the K. of P. Hall, after the Knights had marched back from the church. Although it was the first time the local team had worked, the degree was one of the prettiest given during the day. The candidates returned at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon for the second degree, which was exemplified by Springfield Council.

The third degree was given by Al J. Ward and staff of Dayton, at three o'clock and was one of the most successful ever given by that degree team in this city. Following the third degree, the last given, the exercises closed with prayer led by the Rev. A. A. Burke. Other priests attending the exemplification of the third degree were the Rev. William P. O.Connor, of Jamestown, the Rev. Frank Dillion of Cincinnati, and the Rev. Ertle, of Wilmington.

The newly initiated Knights, members of the degree teams and local Knights to the number of one hundred, banqueted at the Elks' Club at six o'clock. Dr. W. A. Galloway, physician of Xenia Council, was also the guest of the Knights at the banquet.

The class of Knights initiated Sunday is as follows: Lawrence Kehoe, Thomas J. Finn, John W. Purdom, George A. Donnelly, Arthur Donovan, H. J. Brumagem, Michael Foody, Richard Sayre, Michael Rachford, Emmett H. Owens, Martin Kennedy, James Carder, Edward Hilliard, Paul Dewine, John Phillips, Marcus Shoup, Jr., Charles Mangan, William Dewine, Gerald Kelble, Fred Fox, Eugene Leahey, Joseph Jacobs, J. R. Conway, George, James and Frank Taylor.

ATTENDS GRADUATING EXERCISES SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Conwell, of Chestnut street, attended the 43rd annual commencement of the University of Cincinnati, on Saturday, when their son, Dr. H. F. Conwell, received his degree in medicine. Dr. Conwell was one of a class of sixty two, out of a class of three hundred and seventy eight receiving diplomas.

Dr. Conwell matriculated in 1917, after spending two years in preparatory work at Heidelberg University, at Tiffin, Ohio. He also took a special course in bacteriology at the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, during the summer of 1918.

During the war every member of his class enlisted in the service of the United States Army, and Dr. Conwell served one year and a day. During the "flu' 'epidemic, Dr. Conwell with six others volunteered to assist in caring for those stricken, and for a strenuous six weeks they cared for as high as sixty six at a time.

The principal address at the commencement exercises Saturday was given by Judge Rufus B. Smith, and the diplomas were presented by the President of the University. Dr. Conwell will enter the Bethesda Hospital July 1st, as interne for one year.

LESSONS IN FINANCE FOR WOMEN

The urgent necessity for caution when considering investments should ever be remembered by women. The average woman with money to invest is too easily led into unsafe speculation—much more so than the average man. This has been proved time and time again when various "get rich quick" schemes have come to their logical end. Failure of fake stock propositions usually means that hundreds and in some cases thousands of women have lost their all.

Women with funds to invest can always be absolutely assured of complete safety by consulting with a reputable investment house or banker. If any person who is "a friend of a friend of yours" wants to "let you in on the ground loor," you can ordinarily expect to eventually "land in the basement." Get all the details of the "opportunity' and then seek advice from competent sources. You may rest assured that the advice you receive from the banker or investment house will be for your best welfare.

Seek Banker's Advice

If you are not a close student of finance—and very few women are—you should follow the same course that you would were you ill or in need of legal advice. In those cases you would consult a doctor or lawyer. Surely it is just as important to seek advice from a banker or investment house when money is to be invested.

The dealer in investments whether a bank or the type of institution that specializes in securities of various kinds, spends all his time studying various forms of investment just as the doctor studies the various types of diseases. It is logical therefore, to assume that he is an investment specialist and usually fully capable of giving you the best advice to suit your individual investment case. Advice from an investment banker of good standing—and it is easy to find out whether it is good or bad—will mean the complete safety of your invested funds.

It is well for all investors, men or women to bear in mind that were it not for the investment houses, there would seldom be an opportunity for the person with but a few hundred or a thousand dollars to invest with assured safety of principal, as compared with the opportunities presented to those of great wealth.

Small Interests Worthless

The investment house functions for the small investor as well as the large. In fact it is the former class that receives the greatest benefit from these institutions. It is a ell-known fact that thousands of people would be obliged to depend entrely upon savings banks for whatever return they might exexpect from their money had not the investment banker made it possible through real estate bands and other similar forms of securities of small denominations for them to increase their income with complete safety.

Don't risk the dollars of your principal for a few extra cents interest. Abnormal interest return is never worth the worry over loss of principal. Keeping your principal intact is far greater satisfaction that any return beyond a reasonable amount you may be promised for it.

Safeguarding the funds of its clients is the primary and most important responsibility of the reputable investment house. Women particularly shou.d avail themselves of the facilities for safe and sound investment offered by organizations which in some cases have spent generations in studying the needs of both small and large investors. Always consult an investment banker before investing your funds. You will then be sure that your money is safe..... .. ..

TEUTONIC DIVORCE MILLS GRINDING OUT SEPARATIONS

Berlin.—The divorce wave following the war has hit Germany with full force. English divorce courts worked overtime the first year after the armistice straightening out the marital tangles resulting from the war. Germany reacted more slowly, but the Teutonic divorce mills are now grinding out separation papers with full German efficiency.

"In the year 1920 in Berlin there was one divorce granted for every eighth marriage consummated," declares Berliner Tageblatt, following an investigation into the cause of the domestic disagreements. "Children still play the major role in holding together families, for one-half of the divorced couples during the past year have been childless."

"Continental marriage conventions are notoriously different from those in the United States and cases where men and their wives separate and go their own ways without resorting to the divorce court are so common that the social Grundies scarcely ever raise an eyebrow. The continental custom whereby husbands and wives agree to disagree makes more marked than ever the growing recourse to the courts."

"In the majority of cases the wife was accused as the guilty party," continues the Tageblatt. "But the new freedom brought by the revolution, with the reduced working hours, has brought disaster to many formerly happy families. The husband formerly worked eleven or twelve hours a day, and when he came home in the evening he was a good enough father.

"Since the eight-hour day has come into fashion, and in many lines the man has even shorter hours, the husband spends much of his time in bars, race-tracks or in jovial society—or if they do come home they are in the house so much that it leads to friction and finally the divorce court."

LINA CAVALIERI SAILS FOR EUROPE

Another celebrity has set sail for foreign shores. This time it is one of the songbirds, Lina Cavalieri, world famous prima donna. She left New York for Europe accompanied by her famous husband, Lucien Muratore.

Muratore, it will be remembered, created the leading parts in "Salome," "Francesca da Rimini" and other well known operas. After his successes in Paris he came to this country and has been with the Chicago Grand Opera Company since 1921.

REVEILLE.

Give me the note, O Trumpeter!
Yea, they have thrust me into hell,
Bound me and beaten dumb my lips
And stopped mine ears; but do thou stir
The silence with thy golden cry
And I will break my bonds and sing
Till the whole void shall catch my voice
And fling it to the frosty stars,
Bidding the living dead rejoice,
Saying, "O brothers of eclipse,
They cannot harm the soul that wills,
Nor shams it with their scourge of ills!"
Sound, yet again, O Trumpeter!

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

Wanted—$25,000-a-Year Man!

In a crisis it's the half-way men that have to go.

Those who have the courage and foresight and initative to plough through things, stay when the big fight looms.

It is difficult for the ragged edged sort of men to understand this truth. They think that they should be cared for in better style. But the masterful man in a tight emergency doesn't think of himself but of the structure which he has helped to build.

The $25,000-a-year-man—and those bigger than this—are always workers in easy strain because they SEE big. And sight in business brings greater rewards than almost anything else. If you can see big, you are bound to DO big.

There are more worlds to conquer these days than at any other time in history. But you have to go after them!

The contented-with-his-job man gets in the way of big worlds when they come towards him and so is either crushed by them or else pushed down the sidings. But the creator and initiator gives a good jump and gets astern of the oncoming world and—goes ahead with it!

Business is dull—but businesses are hunting high and low for $25,000-a-year men.

Because these are the kind of men who dig the graves for dull times in business. Business founded on visions germinate in dull times. Earthquakes or floods or panics can't kill them.

The president of the United States has just appointed an advertising man to head the Shipping Board of the country. I can remember when this man was only an extraordinary hustler in the business he now owns. President Harding said he wanted a man who could get things done. He said that he didn't have to be an expert man at building boats or ships to fill his task. The President showed great wisdom in this appointment. A. D. Lasker will make good.

Big men are all the time coming to the top—just like cream!

Worth is a great commodity. It is the oxygen of high achievement. And if you would rise, you must breathe it at every breath.

Ford

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement, regarding reduction in prices.

In part he says: "The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low materials costs which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the unprecedented demand for Ford cars, particularly during the past three months permitting maximum production, have made the price reduction of two weeks ago possible.

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at less than the cost to produce, on account of the recent big price reductions, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further ut in the price of the tractor."

We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

YOUNG STILLMAN STANDS BY MOTHER IN DIVORCE CASE

New York, June 20.—James Stillman, Jr., or "Bud," as he is known to his schoolmates, took the leading publicity role in the sensational divorce case of the former banker, James Stillman, today, folowing his interview in which he denounced his father and revealed that a split has accurred among the children with his sister, Ann, supporting his father.

Young Stillman—he is only 17—is a student at Milton academy. He has been "cramming" for examinations which began today. His intervie in support of his mother, was the most striking human-interest utterance that has come out of the whole sensational case.

It was learned from an authoritative source today that Mrs. Stillman will demand that the charge of illegitimacy, brought by her husband against her young son Guy, be dismissed from the divorce hearings are resumed before Referee Gleason, Jun 28. For the time being Mrs. Stillman has centered her fight in behalf of her little son.

According to present plans of Stillman's counsel, the plaintiff's evidence in support of his illegitimacy charge will be completed when the hearings are resumed and then Mrs. Stilman can begin her counter move. The demand for the dismissal of the charge against Guy must me made by Attorney John E. Mack, guardian at law for Guy.

It is reported that Stillman is preparing a new offer for a settlement but so far as known, no definite developments have taken place in this connection.

Mrs. Florence Leeds, the co-respondent in Mrs. Stillman's counter action for divorce, has dropped from sight. Her friends said they could not confirm the report that Stillman had broken with her and had given her $500,000 as well as offering to support and educate little Jay Leeds.

Mrs. Stillman alleges that her husband is the father of Jay.

REFLECTIONS OF A POOR RICH BOY

"It is sort of hard to say it, but I don't believe I have a father any more.

"The last time I saw father, he put his hand to me, but I refused to take it.

"I think it is downright mean of my father, because of the attitude he has taken with mother.

"I cannot recognize as my father the man who is trying to ruin mother.

"Gosh, sister Ann has me puzzled. She knows everything that is going on and yet she turns from mother to my father.

"I don't think my father ever did love my mother.

"One night I saw father with another woman, but he said he only went with women to such harmless things as tea partjes."—(From an Interview with James (Bud) Stillman.

CONGRESSMEN TO REDUCE BY DRILLS

Washington — The Congressional belt measure is expected shortly to undergo drastic reductions, if present plans continue to progress.

Under the rasping voice of a Marine Corps physical instructor, fresh from his duties of putting the leathernecks through their paces, members of Congress daily twist through the throes of the famous Swedish drill, the most trying physical drill ever devised by a Swede, or anyone else, to believe the marines who have experienced it.

Daily in the House gynasium corpulent representatives, clad in gym suits roll over the floor, bend jump and do other fat-chasing stunts. Occasionally the instructor, Sergeant W. C. Forse, who is at home with the padded gloves or on the wrestling mat takes on more ambitious pupils for a short bout.

All this takes place in the House gymnasium, a comparatively little-known institution, founded by certain vigorous members of Congress, unanimously deserted by the fat ones when the first blast of hot weather hit the Capitol last year and now resurrected and going strong.

WOMEN RESENT CHARGE THAT THEY ARE MERCILESS

Denver.—Attention, ladies!

Scream loud and scream long when confronted by a burglar or a footpad!

This is the advice of Chief of Police "Rug" Williams, given in a series of "Hints on Home Protection," for the benefit of the female of the species.

A woman's best defense against attack is her voice, Williams declares and says that the best and quickest thing for her to do when confronted by an intruder is to scream—scream at the top of her voice—and the more terrified the pitch the more successful her effort is likely to be. Because, the chief adds, either the burglar will flee or someone will come to her aid.

Time is too often limited in emergency cases for a woman to rush to a pillow, or a bureau drawer, to grasps a revolver and even when she does get hold of a gun, the chief thinks the chances are she will not know how to use it. "So just scream scream, scream!"

And the high mogul of Denver's Police Department adds a few "don'ts" to the advice to women.

"Don't slip over to the grocery store and leave the doors open.

"Don't go out at night leaving the house black dark. A thief works best under cover of darkness.

"Raise the shades, light up dimly and lock the house before going out for an evening.

"Don't hide the front door key under the porch mat for 'sonny' or 'sister' when they get home from school. A prowler watching the house is certain to discover the secret."

PROPOSES CHANGE IN REPARATIONS

Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the Exchequer and chairman of the London Joint city and Midland Bank, who proposes a reparation change to counterbalance the huge German exports which will according to him, harm the British trade within a few years. "If Germany could get her trade going," he said, "it is probable that by the third year her industry would be running with such energy and volume as would enable her to meet the demands made on her.

TWO ARE KILLED AS FLYING BOAT DROPS INTO RIVER

Troy, N. Y., June 20.—Don Campbell, 31, and Harry Beattie, 18, of Watervliet were killed and Schuyler Mocharie, 22, of Albany seriously injured Sunday afternoon when a giant hydroairplane piloted by Campbell was wrecked in shallow water in the Hudson River south of the new federal dam.

Campbell, the pilot, seemed to be executing a nose dive after flying exceedingly low over the grounds of the Laureate Boat Club. Evidently he was not high enough to complete the dive. The nose of the machine struck the gravel bottom. Captain William Nial of the boat club headed a rescuing party which was hampered by the tide rising so fast it threatened to drown Mocharie before he could be extricated. The machine was owned by the Hudson Valley Air Line and was being tuned up for passenger carrying.

Don M. Campbell was a native of Illinois. At the outbreak of the world war he enlisted in the aviation section of the signal corps and was later an instructor at Kelley Field, Texas.

Sunday's fatal crash was the first accident of any kind he had ever had. Since his dicharge from the army he had been superintendent in one of the largest airplane factories in the United States which position he resigned May 1, to become vice president and general manager of the Hudson Valley Air Line Inc.

LAUGHS AT STARS; RECEIVES FINE

Chicago,—This is a fair warning that visitors may not laugh at the shiny stars worn by River Forest's police force.

Roy Dale with several companions, drove his car through the Chicago suburb. He passed Chief of Police Laatz and Patrolman Staurt.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laugh Dale. "Nice shiny stars. Ha, ha, ha!"

He pased the two policemen again.

"Ha, ha, ha!" he laughed.

Lattz arrested Dale, and Police Magistrate Wiliam Oliphant fined him $25 and costs for disorderly conduct.

"You can't make fun of our Police Department," was the Magistrate's solemn warning.

SHE COULDN'T LIE ON FEATHER BED

Cincinnati Woman Ached From Head to Foot After Four Years Of Rheumatism.

Characteristic of the statements that have made Tanlac a household word throughout the entire continent is that of Mrs. A. McLeash, 433 West Eight St., Cincinnati. She relates her remakable experience as follows:

"I just know I am the happiest woman in Ohio since I got my health back. Rheumatism had me in its clutches for fourteen years and I had been confined to the house for months when I began taking Tanlac. My feet and ankles were so swollen I couldn't put my shoes on and my arms hurt me so bad I couldN't raise my hand to my head. I ached all over, and my skin was so sensitive it hurt even to lie on my feather bed. I had a bad case of stomach trouble too and I believe I was the most miserable person alive.

"Tanlac is the only thing that ever helped me and my only regret is that I didn't try it years ago. It soon had me out of bed and able to get around As my rheumaticm left me I began to get some real rest at night. My improvement kept up until today I am in perfect health, able to go anywhere and haven't a pain or an ache. I have no more trouble from indigestion and eat anything I want.

"Soon after Tanlac got me out of bed I went to the big revival meeting at the tabernacle, and when my friends saw me there they were amazed they could hardly believe their own eyes as they had no idea I would ever get on my feet again. I will never forget I owe health and happiness to Tanlac, The grandest medicine on earth."

Tanlac is sold in Xenia by Sayre and Hemphill and leading Druggists.

"Just How to Make a Delicious Cocoanut Layer Cake.

"Please publish one of your "just how recipes for a Cocoanut Layer Cake," writes a bride reader of this column, Here is my reply.

Cocoanut Layer cake: Cream together 1-2 cup of butter and 1 cup of granulated sugar; add the beaten yolks of 2 eggs and 1 cup of sweet milk. Now sift together 2 1-2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder and 1-2 teaspon salt and add these to the mixing bowl also. Fold in the stiffy-beaten whites of 2 eggs and flavor with 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Pour this batter into 2 buttered layer cake pans and bake for 25 minutes in a hot oven. Put between these layers the following:

Cocoanut Cream Filling for a two-layer cake: (This will make just enough for one cake.) Heat 3-4 of a cup of sweet milk in a small saucepan. Now take 1-4 cup of more sweet milk and mix into it 4 tablespoons of flour when stirred smooth, add this thickening to the hot milk, stirring constantly. Have ready in a small bows well beaten egg which has been mixed with 6 tablespoons of granulated sugar and a pinch of salt, and add this to the milk a few seconds after adding the flour. When thick, stir in 1 cup of shredded cocoanut and let cook a minute, then remove from range and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. (This filling is apt to catch at the bottom and burn unless it is stirred ceaselessly.) Spread at once between two cold or hot layers (it makes no difference which) and proceed to make the following icing:

Just enough Cocoanut Icing for One Layer Cake: Beat 1 egg in a medium sized mixing bowl ready to have hot sirup poured into it. Now make the sirup in this way: Mix together 2 tablespoons of boiling water and 4 tablespoons of granulated sugar in a small saucepan and let them boil without stirring until a little will "thread" from a spoon when it is held high in the air and dripped back into the saucepan. (For the inexperienced I might say that this "thread" is an almost invisable spider-web-like ending of the drop of sirup after it has just left the edge of the spoon.) When this stage is reached take the saucepan off the fire at once and pour the hot sirup into the stiffy-beaten egg-white; beat rapidly, using an egg beater of the wheel type, and after one full minute of beating add 1-2 cup of shredded cocoanut.

Spread at once over the layer.

Many housekeepers prefer to make double this quantity of icing and put half of it between the two layers and the other half on top—thus obviating the necsity of making a separate filling. But to my mind it is well worth while to take the trouble to make the cream filing I have given about which is simewhat like a custard filling light yellow in color) as it gives a little more variety to the cake and is softer.

It the beginner wishes to be doubly sure of success with the Cocoanut Cream Filling (that is, sure that it will not catch and burn) she may cook it in her double boiler instead of over direct heat, allowing it to cook over the boiler for 15 minutes before adding the flavoring.

AN EASY GUEST LUNCHEON FOR THE MAIDLESS HOME

The following guest luncheon is planned especially for the hostess who must cook the meal herself. It will be seen that it is one of thos everything on-the-table luncheons so convenient to the waiterless home. The luncheon rolls are the only warm food (one warm dish is necessary to digestion) and these may be placed upon the luncheon table just before the guests are seated. I have suggested canned jelled consomme because in the warm weather the efficient housewife conserves her strength as much as possible, and there is no need in her bending over a hot stove to prepare homemade consomme when the canned variety will answer the purpose every bit as well.

PROTECTION FROM COOKING ODORS.

If the woman who does her own cooking will try wearing a bathing cap over her hair when frying doughnuts, pancakes, etc., she will find it protects from grease and odors and preserves the curl. They come in many colors and are quite as attractive as the ordinary dust cap.

MRS. D. N. LEWIS.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

MARGARET TRIES TO ARROUSE VERA'S SUSPICION.

CHAPTER 72.

"How did you do it?" Erma asked after Keith had put us in a tixi and bade us godbye. "I never saw anything so clever in my life."

"It's time I learned to be clever Erma, if I am to keep my husband. All the time I have been staying in the house Margaret has thrown that widow at his head. She had no intention of meeting them today. I'm not very happy over it either, Erma But I don't think that even Margaret can make Keith object to what I bought today."

"I should hope not after what you said. Really, Vera, the way you upbraided her for taking your husband away from business when you had been spending his money was delicious.

"I have made up my mind that is the only way to win out with him Erma. He hates tears, and won't be questioned or stand for anything that looks like fault-finding from me although he does from Margaret. I must try to be tactful enough to keep him. I love him dearly, and at times I think he loves me. I know he would have loved me if we could have had a home of our own away from Margaret's influence."

To my surprise, Keith said nothing at dinner of our meeting, nor did he mention my shopping. I also said nothing in regard to how I had spent the day.

My hats, and one of the dresses, came the next afternoon, late. Keith came in directly, afterward.

"When did you buy them?" Margaret asked.

"Yesterday."

"Why didn't you wait until I could go with you?"

"I had waited quite long enough for new clothes, and I am capable of buying them myself." I spoke pleasantly. "Keith helped me select my hats."

"But I thought you—" she halted in what she had been about to say to Keith. I finished the sentence for her:

"You thought he was lunching with Mrs. De Yisle. He was, but he also went with his wife to buy hats."

"Come girls, I'm hungry. Let the discussion of clothes until after dinner."

Margaret reluctantly followed us in to the dining room.

"Did you get anything else?" she asked after the soup had been served.

"Yes. I bought an afternoon dress—it will be ready for Mrs. Hunter's bridge—and the dearest evening gown

"What color?"

"Orange and black. It is immensely becoming."

"I will go with you in the morning and see if it is appropriate."

"There is no need. It has been altered, and so many changes made that Loretta would not make any change now. Anyway I do not wish it."

"You must have a pretty bill for Keith to pay. Three dresses in one day!"

"As long as I have had none in months I guess Keith wont object, will you dear?"

"No Vera. And Margaret please let's drop the clothes question."

Margaret looked at him as if she were at a loss to understand his attitude. Not once had he said I should have taken her with me, or blamed me for not asking her advice I knew it was because of what I had said, the way I had acted when I met him with Mrs. De Lisle. Margaret would hear of it in good time, I had no doubt. But until she did it was rather fun that I had puzzled her.

In my glee at having for once outwitted Margaret, I did not take into account the feeling against me it would engender in her. For days there was nothing she could do to annoy me or or make me unhappy that she left undone. When the dresses came home she could not conceal her chagrin that they were so becoming. That very day she had seen Mrs. De Lisle.

"So you caught Alice and Keith," she said gleefully.

"Yes, wasn't it odd that I should have seen them? Erma and I had just finished our luncheon. Had I known they were having their lunch so near I should have joined them.

"You mean you would have gone without invitation!"

"I cannot see that a wife needs to wait for a formal invitation to lunch with her own husband." I was determined to keep my temper.

"No—well, you have a lot to learn about a good many things. When a man is at lunch with a fascinating woman he doesn't care to be interrupted, even by his wife."

"I can't see that Mrs. De Lisle is so fascinating."

"Can't you?" Margaret rejoined with a disagreeable smile. "Keith probably let you have all those clothes because he felt a bit guilty," she added with an unmistakable sneer.

SENATE PLUNGES INTO ROW OVER BIG BUSINESS

Bitter Battle Over Control Of Business Under Way.

TEST BILL UP

Frelinghuysen Bill Is Vehicle For Rush Onslaughts.

Washington, June 20.—The senate today plunged into what threatens to be a long bitterly fought battle between the advocates of government regulation of "big business" and proponents of private government in business.

The test bill was the seasonable coal rate bill. The opposition and support centered on it was the warfare between the forces seking to have the government direct the production, transportation and marketing of food, clothes and fuel and these who contend that they should be left to the law of suply and demand and of private business.

The Frelinghuysen bill given the right of the way to the "unfinished business" for the senate, was the vehicle for the rush onslaughts on the Cummins transportation act, by Senator Lafollette, of Wisconsin, Republican, chairman of the senate agricultural "bloc" and the senators, bent upon digging the whole railroad problem before the senate again.

Senators identified with the "agricultural "loc" defended Secretary of Commerce Hover from attacks directed by interests of opposed to the Frelinghuysen bill. Hoover conferred recently with the "agricultural bloc".

"Why should readjustment of the coal situation by initiating lower freight rates during the spring and summer months, and higher rates during the fall and winter, espoused by the Frelinghuysen bill, be confined to coal," senators identified with the "agricultural bloc" inquired; "if seasonal coal rates are to be provided, why not open up the entire freight rate question and demand a complete readjustment of all freight rates and railroad conditions?"

A motion to send both Frelinghuysen coal bills back to the senate interstate commerce committee by which they were favorably reported, was also under way. The motion was to be based on the ground that those opposed to them had insufficient opportunity to air their views as to why the government should let the coal industry severely alone.

THRILLING ESCAPES AND BIG DAMAGE FOLLOW CLOUDBURST

Marietta, O., June 20.—Scores of persons had thrilling escapes and damage which is estimated at $100,000 was done Saturday evening when a cloudburst started a great flood down Federal and Possum creeks, in Athens and Washington counties, with a wall of water four feet high rushing about it.

Thirty five childen practicing in Methodist church at Sharpsburg for childrens day exercises, rushed to a barn for safety when they saw the water sweeping down on the churcr.

SENATORS TAKE UP SOLDIER BONUS BILL

Washington, June 20.—Legislation for the relief of veterans of the world war occupied the center of the stage in senate committee today.

First and most important on the veterans committee is the adjusted compensation bill with the five-fold benefit provisions. After a week's delay to give the five senators time to familiarize themselves with its various features, the senate finance committee is considering it today and is expected to report it favorably.

Senate leaders are hopeful this measure formerly known as the "Soldier's bonus bill," and other legislative proposals of the veterans' relief bills will be put through before many weeks.

RUSSIAN CHIEFS CONCENTRATE FORCES TO OPPOSE GREEK ARMIES

Constantine Fails to Check Demoralization Permeating Greek Army—Cretan Soldiers Loyal to Premier Venizelos Refuse to Fight for King.

Constantinople, June 20. — The concentration of strong forces of Russian troops in the Caucasus, supported with artillery and armored cars, has enabled the Turkish nationalists to withdraw troops from that district and the Kemalist army in Anatolia is continually being reinforced, according to information received here today.

Following the occupation of Kars by part of the eleventh army corps of the Russian army the Turks withdrew and large amounts of Russian war materials were transported to the Anatalian coast.

There are indications that the presence of King Constantine has not checked the demoralization which began to permeate the Greek army. The Greek king was reported to have been seized with an indisposition at Smyrna but Constantine's illness was attributed in some quarters to the unfavorable reception the Crean soldiers accorded him.

The Cretan soldiers are loyal to Premier Venizeulas of Greece himself a Cretan, who was forced to leave Greece when Constantine returned from exile. Cretan soldiers mutinied while embarking from Rodes, for Anatolia, and attacked their officers. The official account of the incident was that it was a drunken brawl, but another version is that the Cretans refuse to fight for Constantine. Greek royalist troops suppressed the mutiny and four of the ring leaders were shot.

Military experts here believe that the position of the Turks is superior to that of the Greeks Evacuation of Zoungouldaks has been commenced by the French. The Italians are sending a force into the Meander Valley from Adalis to prevent the Greeks from entering to outflank the Turks. Italian warships have arrived at Adalia and are disembarking marines.

The activities of the French and Italians are explained by the fact that both countries have entered into an armistice with the Turks.

DEFEAT FOR VOLSTEAD BILL TO OUTLAW BEER PREDICTED AT OUTSET

Camp of Prohibitionists Split Wide Open By Charges Of Bad Faith Between Wheeler, and Dinwiddie—Former Object of Flood of Criticism.

Washington, June 20.—Defeat for the Volstead bill to outlaw beer was predicted today as the row began to take on more fire. The prohibitionists, at loggerhead with Andy Volstead, author of the bill to make medicinal beer-drinking a crime, went before the house rules committee for a grilling. Their camp was split wide open by the charges and counter charges of bad faith passed between, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the anti-saloon league and Rev. E. C. Dinwiddie, leader of several national temperance bodies.

The wets wept no biter tears today as Dinwidie turned loose a verbal torrent of criticism against Wheeler and accused him of prime responsibility for an imminent flood of beer and liquor, such as the country has not known for 20 months since the "dry" era began. Dinwiddie was vehement over Wheeler's accusation that he was "aiding and abetting the wets."

Dinwiddie said of all persons in the land, Wheeler is to be chiefly blamed for the refusal of congress to make the beer bill a means of paralyzing legitimate users of alcohol.

"There will be a deluge of beer and other liquors and Wheeler is to be blamed for his obstinate attitude," said Dinwiddie. "He alone is responsible if delay results from his motion that anti-beer legislation must be backed up with a lot other controversial matters. I am deply sorry that such a situation has arisen. But congress cannot be expected to take action which clearly will exterminate interests under the guise of interdicting beer."

The row between the "drys" means inevitably that the house and senate will refuse to set aside its normal proceedure to furnish a vehicle to "railroad" the bill through.

As the merry dry row brewed, there came a demand upon the treasury to issue the beer regulations and Secretary of the Treasury Melon directed commissioner of internal revenue Blair to make the beer regulations effective without further delay.

Secretary Melon said frankly there was no excuse for holding up the regulations and he admitted that the brewers, if they elected, could be succesful through mandamus procedings, in forcing the treasury to put regulations into operation.

Revenue Commissioner Blair today saw that the drys were hopelessly divided and that their apparent hostility to any medification of the Volstead bill would only prolong the fight in congress into endless struggle.

He decided to affix his signature at once, to the beer regulations and they will go out in a day or two, giving full authority to brewers to manufacture medical beer with a "kick" and to sell it to wholesale and retail druggists.

EIGHT THOUSAND ATTEND MEETING OF KIWANIS CLUBS

International Convention Opens Monday In Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., June 20—More than 8,000 delegates and visitors from all parts of the United States and Canada are in the city today for the fifth international convention of Kiwanis Clubs of the United States and Canada which opens here today.

Numbered among the early arrivals were a train load of boosters of Atlanta, Ga., which city is seeking the convention next year. They brought with them a load of watermelons and peaches from the empire state of the South, with which to beguile minds, eyes and stomachs of the delegates.

A delegation from Toronto, Canada, also anxious to be host next year, paraded to convention headquarters this morning led by a Highland band, clad in the traditional "kilts" of Scotland.

The day's program includes meeting of committees and registration. Official sessions of the main convention begin at 10 o'clock tomorrow The convention will last until Friday.

LEWIS' HAT IN RING DECLARE HIS BACKERS

Will Remain Until Mine Leader Breaks His Silence

BIG CAMPAIGN ON

Irish Fight Waxes Hot As the Convention Proceeds.

Denver, June 20—John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, today officially announced his candidacy for president of the American Federation of Labor.

Denver, Colo., June 20.—Supports of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, who is being boomed to succeed Samuel Gompers as president of the American Federation of Labor, served notice today that his hat is in the ring, to remain until he breaks his silence and removes it.

The most important development is open acknowledgement by men close to Gompers that a big campaign is on to elect the miners' head and considerable worry is being caused in the Gompers camp as a result. Hitherto, they declared the Lewis talk "mere poppycock."

Electioneering is the big business of the hotel lobbies, where the delegates to the convention gather. It has crowded even the Irish question into the background.

Charges and counter charges filled the air. The one most frequently heard is that publicity representatives whose salaries are paid out of funds in the federation, have influenced, or have attempted to influence newspaper correspondents, to suppress news about the attempt to oust Gompers and to nurse along rumors that it is "hot air" emanating from an eminent publisher and other outside sources.

Today Gompers boosters are claiming that if the election was held at once, the veteran labor leader would win by a majority of 5,000 votes. No important measures now before the resolutions committee will come before the convention today, according to James Duncan its chairman.

Hearings will be held by the committee during the day on the Irish resolutions and the measure introduced by the railroad unions demanding a program of legislative action applying the principle of government ownership and democratic control of the railroads to all the basic industries.

The Irish fight waxes hotter as a result of the action of the majority of the original signers of the resolution, providing for a boycott on all British made goods in petitioning the resolutions committee for permission to withdraw it. The nine or ten delegates whose names remain on the resolution, declared that it cannot be withdrawn, and have served notice that they will demand its submission to the convention and a roll call vote.

Of the cities competing for the next convention, Birmingham, Ala., seems to be in the lead, with Fort Worth, Texas, its strongest rival.

After the convention adopts the executive council's resolution, it will be left to that body to select the next meeting place of the federation.

Many Small Craft Destroyed On Black Sea Coast.

PEACE IMPOSSIBLE

Trouble Between Greece Turks Must Be Settled By War.

Athens, June 20.—Many small crafts, which were discharging arms for the Turkish nationalists were sunk by Greek warships at Inedoli (Treboli) on the Black Sea coast near Trebizond, according to the following communique issued here today:

"A Greek squadron demanded the delivery of 40 launches that were discharging war materials at Inedoli. Surrender was refused by the Turks. Following the evacuation of the town by the civilians, the Greek squadron began a bombardment. Many launches and two coastwise ships were sunk. Warehouses containing war supplies were destroyed. The Turkish battery defending the town was silenced."

Official circles are opposed to the suggestion of the allies that the Greeks halt their offensive until the allies can mediate, in an effort to arrange peace between Greece and Turkey.

London, June 20.—The Near East issue between Greece and Nationalist Turkey must be settled on the field of battle and not in the peace chamber according to a Smyrna telegram to the Daily Telegraph today, quoting Dr. Stratos, an official of the Greek government. Dr. Strates has just arrived at Smyrna at the head of a Greek parliamentary committee, which is going to the Front. Dr. Stratos was quoted as saying:

"Mediation is not acceptable. We cannot yield Thrace and Smyrna. The only solution is by force of arms. A military offensive is necessary to bring the Turks into a more reasonable state of mind.

"Greece has a diplomatic object in view. The military check at Eski-Shehr impressed diplomatic circles in London and Paris. The political effect must be redeemed. Europe will change its view only when the military situation is changed."

The military correspondent of the Daily Telegraph in commenting on the results of the Anglo-French negotiations in Paris, pointed out the dangers attending a collapse of the Greek army. The correspondent said:

"The advisability was discussed of an immediate offer of mediation, first to the Greeks, then to the Turks, to Mustapha Kemal Pasha (head of the Turkish nationalists) as well as the sultan.

"Rome would welcome any formula from London and Paris which would further English adhesion. But what really matters is the prospect of securing acceptance of good will by Angora and Athens."

LOCAL MERCHANTS SIGN FOR BOOTH SPACE IN FESTIVAL

Letters sent out by the Chamber of Commerce to merchants who have not yet signed up for booth space in the big Fall Festival, to be held here the latter part of August and the first of September, have been fraught with results.

Many local merchants have sent in their requests for space, according to Secretary F. J. Slackford. Indications are now that the Festival will be much bigger and better than those engineered entirely by local business men several years ago.

One of the most interesting features of Festival week will be the automobile parade, according to the plans for such a novelty, which are being carried out by the Festival Production Company of Chillicothe, which company is staging the local Festival. Prizes will be offered for the best decorated automobiles and floats, and competent judges will be selected from among Xenia business men to decide on the awards.

TILDEN TO DEFEND TITLE AT WIMBLEDON

Wimbledon, Eng., June 20.—The world's turf tennis championship got under way here today with William T. Tilden II of Philadelphia, the laying-through champion on hand to defend his honors. Tilden wanted to compete on an equal footing with other entrants starting the first round. The committee however denied his request and he will play the challenge round only.

In the women's tourney there is much interest this year, with Mlle. Lenglen, Mrs. Malla Rjurstedt Mallory and Miss Edith Sigourney entered.

POLICE TAKE PRECAUTIONS TO PREVENT RECURRENCE OF FATAL RIOT AT HAVANA

Havana, June 20. — Extraordinary precautions were taken today by police to prevent a recurrence of the riot at the funeral yesterday of former president Gomez in which thre persons are known to have been killed and scores injured by bullets from the revolvers of policemen.

Eyewitnesses stated today that among the dead and seriously injured were a 9-year old boy and three woman all of whom were shot down by police when the frenzied mob attempted to force its way into the cemetery in an effort to seize and embrace the dead warrior's body.

According to government officials, the action of the police in firing upon the mob was participated by an armed group of the rioters, who had fired at the police during the rush against the cemetery gates.

New Spring Styles

By Mercedes Devries-Schmit.

And now let us turn our attention to the spring suit. Every single day brings us a new and most often charming version of the 1921 models.

It seems to me that the sensible, conservatice, severe-looking English tailored suit is "passe." We see now and we welcome with the striking "couturiere" creations. Parsion suits are essentially femine and for this reason, so becoming to most of us.

In these imported models the skirts are decidedly longer—mind you. I don't say long—but longer.

Some suits, many of them are beautifully embroidered. Lovely wonderful patterns appear. A beautiful dark blue suit has a motif of triangles worked in tarnish gold thread. Lattice work of squares covers sometimes the entire surface of the material. Many of the new jackets reach almost down to the very bottom of the skirt, while others on the other and, are quit sort. The reeingote with its semi-gtted lines is also in evidence, as they say in Paris, 'ilypu 'aenu pboth...1angleh,ii Paris, "il y en a pour tous les gouts."

Removable Collars.

Very smadt the large removable cape collors made of the material itself. These short capes, very popular last season, proved so becoming and practical that many elegantes insist on adopting them again this Spring, hence their renewed success.

The skirts of the new tailleurs are are all simple and almost always absolutely plain—if there is any trimming it is to be found on the jacket.

Very smart the new models of crepe de chine. One of the most charming creations designed this season is of gray crepe de chine trimmed with dull embroidery. The skirt has narrow pin tucks on each side. The jacket girdle. The sleeve is long and narrow and is trimmed with a small cuff of cire gray satin, this same cire satin forms the flat collar and the revers of the jacket.

A Chain Belt.

Another model is made of blue poiret twill. The coat simulates triangles by an all-over embroidery of black chenile silk, while the skirt is absolutely plain, showing the new circular lines so much in evidence just now. The sleeves rather narrow at the top, show a tendency to width from the elbow down to the wrist.

A chain of heavy steel forms the girdle. With this suit is worn a huge jabot of ecru lace.

A very new tailleur which seems to take its inspiration from Persia is made in champagne gabardine. The jacket is cut with sharply flaring skirts and is trimmed with yellow and brown cire braid. The uppe part of this jacket is exceedingly snug and fastens in the middle of the front with self-covered buttons. This model is decidedly youthful, although a bit eccentric.

And now a word of advce.

Remember before being tempted to buy a beige or a gray suit, no matter how smart and becoming it may be, that navy blue our old standby ever-faithful friend, is by far the most satisfactory color if real service and wear are to be exacted of the tailored suit. lsotolsrriss dtripssrrlleda",Collieer is trimmed with the same fine pin tucks and belted with a fancy silver

STATE CHARGES THAT "KISSING BLOND" CAUSED MRS. ORTHWEIN TO SHOOT LOVER

Mrs. Cora C. Orthwein, taken before the trial started.

Mrs. Cora Orthwein is on trial in Chicago for the killing of Herbert P. Zeigler, Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company executive, in her apartment after a night of revelry at various Chicago resorts. The state in its opening statement charged that Mrs. Orthwein killed Zeigler because Zeigler left her for Mrs. Charlotte Lewinsky, known as "the kissing blond." Mrs. Orthwein says she shot in self defense.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS by MRS. MORTON

CLEAN SUEDE SHOES

Dear Mrs. Buchanan: Will it injure suede shoes to brush the dust out of them with a clothes brush? Name some preparation to keep them clean.

No, an old clothes brush is very good to keep to brush the dust from your suede shoes. There are several good preparations on the market which will keep suede shoes clean. I have a little steel brush I use to raise the nap again after I clean them. It is well to have your suede shoes cleaned for you once in a while.

DYEING CROCHET WORK

Dear Mrs. Buchanan: I have crocheted a rather large edging for a piano scarf in white mercerized thread and wonder if I can die it gree either with dye or ink. M. M.

If you are careful you can dye it. Use the boil dyes, not ink. I once started to make an elaborate center piece and when it was about three-fourth finished found I couldn't match the thread, which was a peculiar shade of sand. I finished it in a lighter shade and dyed it deep brown. It came out beautifully.

BABY'S BATH

How old should the baby be before the daily bath is discontinued?

It should not be discontinued, I think. If a child is given a daily sponge the adult will always take it, as it tends to health, and if I were you I would keep right on with the daily bath until the child is old enough to take it for himself.

CANDIED ORANGE PEEL

Dear Mrs. Buchanan: I have found "Woman and the Home" of great use to me, especially the recipes and household hints, but I have never noticed a recipe for candied orange peel. Will you kindly print one in your column? J. C.

I like candied orange peel crisp, without the soft white portion of the peel left on. I boil the orange peeling for three hours and then with a spoon scrape ever bit of the whits away and cut the yellow rind into strips.

Make a syrup of granulated sugar and water and the tiniest bit of salt and add the orange peel. When it has become so thick that you are sure that in another second the syrup will crystallize back into sugar, pour out on a platter on which is spread some granulated sugar. As it becomes cool, stir through the mixture with a fork and the strips of orange peel will come apart as the sugar hardens. Various amount of sugar of course are necessary for different amounts of peeling. After you have made it once you will be able to judge correctly. The first time you will probably make more syrup than you need.

STRAWBERRY JAM

I want a good recipe for strawberry jam. Will you please give me one?. MRS. C. A.

All berry jams are made alike if you make genuine jam. That is, allow three-fourths of a pound of sugar to each pound of fruit. Crush the berries after they are hulled and washed, then stir in the sugar. Jam like jelly should be boiled hard and fast. When jam is done it will give the same test as is required for finished jelly. That is, when a little is cooled in a spoon for a few minutes it will not pour from the side of the spoon but will flake off in a sheet. Seal in hot sterilized jelly glasses and when cold cover with hot meted paraffin.

NATURE STUDY BOOKS

So many requests have come in for the books for nature study that I have asked Mrs. C. to send me the list she used. She writes to me:

"The splendid little books that helped me to become acquainted with the birds and flowers were two of the "Pocket Nature Guides," "Land Birds," and 'Flower Guide,' by Chester A. Reed.

"These are not listed in the Public Library but may be purchased at the book stores for $1.25 each.

"In addition to the foregoing I used as reference books 'Bird Neighbors,' and 'Nature's Garden,' by Neltje Blanchan, which may be obtained from the library.

"The 'Pocket Nature Guides,' are the best to use in the beginning because every subject is fully illustrated. In this series there is also a 'Tree Guide' but I found sufficient research work without the trees.

"Your correspondents will find a pair of good opera or field glasses almost indispensable in studying birds and a magnifying glass is interesting to use on the flowers sometimes.

"I think I collected nearly 250 specimens of flowers in my brief walks and at the time I congratulated myself on being quite well acquainted with these lovely things. I find, though, on each visit out of town flowers that are new to me—so study of them is apparently endless.

BEAUTY CHATS by EDNA KENT FORBES

ANSWERED LETTERS

Ky. Boy.—Growing boys are often troubled as you are and their skins improve in a few years, however you may hasten the improvement yourself. I know of one boy of 20 who overcame this tendency to pimples by taking two yeast cakes each day, dissolved in a half glass of water. Take one at night and the other in the morning. You probably eat as you shouldn't and nature has this way of throwing it off.

Reader—To reduce the hips, stand erect, hands clasped around waist or either side. Slowly sink into a position as if you were about to seat yourself on an imaginary stool, letting the knees separate and spread out, with the feet firmly on the ground and the back straight and head erect. Hold this position an instant then rise. Sepeat several times.

Take this same position and vary the exercise by lifting the heels and rest the weight on the balls of the feet, then lower the body until you are seated on the heels. Rest an instant and rise, repeating sexercise several times.

High School Lass.—Steaming takes the shine from serge. It will also take the curl out of your velvet ribbons. With the former, place the article flat on the board, brush out all dust and cover the serge with a very damp clean piece of muslin Press by running the iron over the muslin, but stop the work while the muslin is still damp, then brush the nap of the serge while it is still steaming.

The ribbon should be dampened or the back and pulled across the surface of the iron. This steams the nap making it rise and also flattens out the ribbons as if it were new.

Toasts are not necessary at your banquet, and unless they are brilliant, they detract from the occasion.

Pinkie—You will find plenty of suggestions for furnishing if you consult the magazines that specialize on the subject. In the furniture departments of the big stores, there are usually sample rooms to be seen. Only a few choice toilet articles should have any place on the dressing table or chiffonier.

Brown Eyes—Powdered pumice rubbed into these warts will remove them. If they are large, tie white silk around each one, until it dries up and drops off .

Anita—A good cream will not grow hair. If you use the cleansing cream and remove it there is no need for soap . Your skin probably does not require much feeding, so you should use only a small amount of the good cream. The treatment is cleansing and the surplus cream should be removed with moist cloths wrung from hot water. Follow with the good cream, remove surplus, then dash very cold water over the sikn. Ice is preferable. After such a cleansing the night before only cold water need be used the following morning.

Grey Eyes—Either response is correct., Offering the hand when introduced depends on circumstances. It is more gracious and friendly and should be done when this attitude is to be shown in the meeting; but the simple bow is more convenient among a number of people assembled together. It is also more formal.

Tomorrow—Cutting the Cuticle.

YOUR TEETH

There are certain people noted for the beauty of their teeth and other equally well known for the ill-health of their teeth. If you will study the history of these peoples a bit you will find invariably that those with good teeth live on hard foods which require much chewing. an contain comparatively little starch, and that the most highly civilized nations are frequently those with the worst teeth.

English people, generally, have poor teeth and hate dentists. American people are inclined to have poor teeth but probably take better care of them than any other nation in the world. An "American dentist" can command almost any price in foreign countries.

We Americans, and by that I mean both the States and Canada, are inclined to eat too much starch and too many soft foods. Our teeth literally do not get enough exercise, and as starch ferments in the mouth decay sets in at an early age.

It is absolutely necessary to visit a good dentist every six months or even oftener, for the teeth become coated with tartar, this tartar gets under the gums, irritates them, eventually causes little puss cells and by its irritation causes the gums to shrink, and pyorhoea sets in. Then the teeth loosen and drop out.

If the teeth are kept absolutely clean by brushing them at least twice a day much of this can be avoided. But only a dentist can get off the tartar under the gums.

Anxious Eleanor.—Your anemia causes the pimples. They will disappear as you build up the quality of your blood. Your weight is correct.

Perplexed.—Your yellow skin comes from a sluggish liver. You can help it by drinking more water and eating plenty of fruit, green vegetables and salads, which can be made from dandelion leaves.

The cold cream is used first, as it softens the skin, preparing it for the treatment. Ice always completes treatment, as it closes the pores.

H. P. T.—You can reduce that fleshiness under the arms by rolling the arms in the shoulder sockets and describing a circle with the hands. Take the exercise first with one arm, then the other one, finally, roll both at the same time. Begin it with a slow motion and increase until the arms whirl around as if they were wheels.

MASKET BASKET.

By Jessie Wetzel Knott

Spring and Summer should bring a readjustment and simplifying of many of the routine tasks of the household, and an entirely new schedule of meal planning, so that we can have more time outdoors and to entertain our guests.

In most families the seavy meal of the day is in the evening, and it is a problem to prepare this meal without spending a good deal of time at the task But these Spring and Summer afternoons are too precious to let slip away while we are housed in the four walls of a kitchen. The ready-to-serve meal and the one piece meal will go far to solve the problem.

Ready-To-Serve Foods.

It is amazing how much the markets have to offer in the way of ready-to-serve meals. You can find something for every course of the meal from soup to dessert. There are boullon, gumbos, broths and consommes, and any number of cream soups, which can be prepared in an an instant A dash of seasoning gives a "home-made" taste.

Then there are salmon and tuna fish, sardines and the more expensive lobster and crab meats. Do not serve these plain, but make a white sauce highly seasoned with salt, peper and paprika and cayenne pepper, and add a few capers, chopped olives or a teaspoonful of Worcester sauce. Crisp buttered toast, or hard boiled eggs, make a pleasant addition to these creamed dishes.

Sometimes I make up some baking powder biscuit, split them and put the creamed fish between and on top.

Cooked meat comes in many varieties. Ham, corned beef and tongue all have great possibilities for quickly prepared dishes. Sliced and served cold with a peppery relish they are very palatable.

However, ready-to-serve meals will not solve the problem entirely There must be careful planning, as well. Set the table for dinner as you are clearing away the luncheon dishes and then cover it with a nice clean tea cloth. With your menu planned and the materials at hand so that no time will be wasted hunting for various things, the vegetables washed and put in the ice box, salad dressing made and ready, you will be surprised how the meal seems to fly together when you start to prepare it

Health Talks

By John B. Huber, A.M.,M.D

Oh holiest health all other good excelling!—GREEK HYMN.

CONSUMPTION IS A HOUSE DISEASE

The Sisters of Mercy at the Hospital for Consumptives in New York City come in contect with consumptives day and night, constantly. They dwell in the same rooms with them make their beds, keep night vigils over them, preparetheir meals, handle their clothing. Yet in thirty years, as far back as the record goes—not one of these noble women has died of consumption.

In the Trudeau Sanatorium at Saramac Lake all the dust in a room occupied by consumptive patients, was gathered together, a culture made from it, and the serum injected into a guinea pig. The creature's health remained unimpaired.

I cite these instances to prove that much of the fear of "catching consumption" among people generally is groundless, if those suffering from the affliction are cleanly. And the most important phase of this cleanliness is to hold a handkerchief before the face in coughing or sneezing, and properly to dispose of the sputum.

This advice applies to more persons than you would suppose. Cleanliness is not only a necessaryhabit in all human beings, but it is particularly so with regard to tuberculosis; because every fourth person between 15 and 45 suffers in a degree from tuberculosis, whether they know it or not. Tuberculosis is a house disease, contracted usually in workshops or dwellings where uncleanly tuberculous persons have dwelt.

What Paris Is Wearing

Very smart the new evening capes of taffeta with a deep yoke fitting the shoulders snugly and the waist part made with two wide flounces in front with the help of narrow velvet ribbon.

Gay plaided gingham trimmed with a bit of crisp organdie seems to be the favorite combination for the making of the ideal "garden dress."

The cape is more than ever in favor.

SOCIETY

PRETTY WEDDING SOLEMNIZED SATURDAY

The marriage of Miss Hettie June Holman, to Mr. Carol Brakefield was celebrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Trader on North King street, at seven thirty o'clock, Saturday evening, in the presence of sixty relatives and friends.

The ceremony took place in the living room before an effective decoration of palms, ferns and baskets of white hydrangeas.

Before the service Miss Eula Custis sang "All For You" and "Dawning.' The accompaniment was played by Miss Mamie Burrell.

The strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March rendered by Miss Lucille Chambliss, marked the entrance of the bride, with her maid of honor, Miss Katherine Uhl, who descended the stairs, and was met at the altar by the bridegroom. The ring service was performed, by the Rev. B. B. Uhl of the Lutheran church.

During the ceremony Miss Chambliss played "To a Wild Rose' by McDowell.

The bride was a pretty picture of girlishness in a dress of ruffled organdie and net. Her veil was held with maiden hair fern and white sweet peas. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweet peas.

Miss Uhl was most attractive in a dress of orchid colored organdie with lace trimming. She carried sweetheart roses.

Green and white were used in the decorations of the dining room. A silver basket filled with white roses and sweet peas was used as a centerpice. Candles in crystal holders with green shades were used to light the scene.

Those who were seated at the bride's table with Mr. and Mrs. Brakefild were, the Misses Katherine Uhl, Lucille Chambliss, Eula Custis, Mamie Burrell, Margaret Davis, Ruth Whittington, Laura Downs, Olivia Cost, and Messrs. Kenneth Holman and Thor Nybladh.

NEARLY 700 HEAR CONCERT SUNDAY AT LOCAL CHURCH

Between 600 and 700 people attended the concert given by the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Dayton, at the Presbyterian Church of this city on Sunday evening.

In charge of E. N. Williamson, who is famous along musical lines, and who will appear on a Chautauqua circuit during the coming summer, the choir showed unusual quality and its numbers were well received by the audience.

The concert was presented through the efforts of Mrs. J. Perry Shumaker.

The chorus composed of 45 voices rendered one of the finest sacred conerts ever heard in this city, according to those who attended the concert. The solo and chorus work were both deserving of much praise as the result of their work on Sunday evening.

Each voice in the choir is well trained, and the entire body presents at each of their concerts music of high class.

The program consisted of Rossini's "Stabat Mater" and four selected numbers. The quartette in "Stabat Mater" was sung by Miss Thekla Vollmer, soprano, Miss Mary Early, contralto, Mr. Benjamin Trainer, tenor and Mr. Eldridge Herchelrode, bass, each of whom won the highest praise of their audience.

The "Stabat Mater" chorus while of a heavy nature, was presented beautifully by the large chorus of voices. The accompaniment was played by Mrs. Krebs, who is a daughter of the late Rev. Currier, former pastor of the First Baptist Church of this city, and a sister of Mrs. Wm. Hardman of Yellow Springs. Mrs. Krebs is rated as one of the finest organists of this part of the country.

Preceding the evening's program, the members of the choir formed a processional on King street, and marched into the church, singing, "Onward Christian Soldiers."

BACCALAUREATE IS GIVEN AT HOME SUNDAY EVENING

The Baccalaureate service of the O. S. & S. O. Home High School class was held Sunday evening at seven o'clock at the O. S. & S. O. Home. Rev. B. B. Uhl of the Lutheran Church, this city conducted the service and gave the address to the class.

The service was attended by an audience that filled the Home Chapel. Following the seating of the congregation, the graduates entered the chapel two by two, the girls dressed in white frocks and the boys in the regulation blue uniforms.

The singing of the Doxology by the audience was the first number on the program, followed by a song by the O. S. & S. O. Home choir, composed of 30 voices. The reading of the lesson was next given by Rev. Uhl followed by a song by a chorus of girls voices, 'Lift Thine Eyes," Preceding the address of the evening was a solo by Miss Alma Ashcraft, "Hearken Unto My Voice."

Rev. Uhl chose for the topic of his address, "Purpose," pointing out that to be truly successful one must have a set purpose.

"The rich and poor, the high and low classes all have a purpose,' Rev. Uhl said, 'and this element is characteristic of the Home pupil. You have been proud of the merit won by your fathers, but you have also found that you must exist and succeed upon your own ability and purpose." A word of encouragement to the pupils who have succeeded in completing their school course, was given by Rev. Uhl at the close of his address.

After the evening's address, a double quartette sang, "Sunbeams of Glory." The service was closed by the singing by the congregation of the hymn, "Count Your Blessings," and the Benediction.

The commencement exercises of the Home graduating class will be held Wednesday evening at seven o'clock.

PLAN DOLLAR DAY WEDNESDAY, BIGGEST IN EVENT'S HISTORY

Business men started out Monday morning in automobiles, and with a supply of boys, in a run-around to distribute bills in adjacent counties, advertising Dollar Day to be held by Xenia merchants Wednesday. Advertising in the Evening Gazette and Morning Republican was used to acquaint Greene countians of the event. The big bargain day was planned and executed by the Retail Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and it is planned to make it the biggest ever held here, and on the order of the first Dollar Day held several years ago. Many merchants are co-operating with the plan by offering particularly tempting bargains for the single price of a dollar on that day. Their advertisements appear in today's paper.

Members of the Retail Merchants Committee who started out Monday morning in machines, were Karl Bloom, of Jobe Bros.; Harold M. Owens of The Criterion; James D. Adair, of the Adair Furniture Store, and Ernest Beatty, of Beatty and Son.

CHINA R. R. PLAN INCLUDES 5 NEW ROADS AND MORE CARS.

China is looking up. The Fukien Provincial Assembly is to build five roads—one, the Eastern, from Chasan to Futing, 1584 li; the second, known as the Western, from Fengshi to Kwangtseh, 1515 li; the third, known as the Central, from Nansu to Hokow, 1025 li; the fourth, known as the Southern, from Haiteng to Shanghung, 535 li, and the fifth, known as the Northern, from Fuan to Shaowu, 715 li.

A li is 1800 feet or a little more than a third of a mile. The estimate is to spend $1500 per li of road built. Considering labor costs in China, it would seem pretty good roads could be built for that amount.

The province of Fukien is in Southeastern China. The island of Formosa stands immediately east.

The Peking Hankow Railway invites tenders for forty passenger and dining cars as follows: Six first-class sleeping cars, six second-class sleeping cars, six composite first and seond-class passenger cars, six dining cars, six third-class passenger cars with restaurant and ten third-class passenger cars. Tenders will be opened July 1.

There is an aerial post service between Pekin and Tientsin. For letters sent by this route special stamps are to be issued, one for fifteen cents, another for thirty cents and the third for forty-five cents. The stamps will have a picture of an aeroplane flying over the Great Wall of China and the words, "Aerial Postal Service," will be printed in Chinese and English.

The Ministry of Communications has appointed a commission to devise a method for climinating "red tape" and graft. Its first attention will be devoted to the Government railroads.

"CARRYING ON."

Carrying on is more than living on. Simply to exist, even under difficult circumstances, is not particularly admirable. But to exist and smile through suffering, and distribute blessing along life's common way, and even from a sick bed to set in motion the force of a gladdening example, is praiseworthy and is worth a great deal to all of us, for we commonly get much of our inspiration from the demeanor of others.

A writer said the other day: "Whenever I sit down pen in hand to tell a story, when I want to be my best, and when I call upon my brain to shine in its fullest and most brilliant exercise, I feel dull, and I have to fight my laggard wits to keep them on the go at all."

A famous singer said: "It is a wonder if I am doing well this evening. The orchestra is as the roar of the sea in my ears; the audience is like dancing specters upon that sea. I have the grippe and a high temperature. Only my will-power enables me to appear at all. I won't give in!" Yet that singer was doing the best work her listteners had ever heard her do.

The men who fought for us over there did not ask themselves how they felt at the zero hour when the command came to go over the top. They obeyed orders. Many came out of the carnage so badly crippled that they would have had every excuse for saying: "Let me sit and wait for death. I can do nothing. I am no good." But they would not. Having been soldiers in war, they have determined to be soldiers evermore. They are determined to fight down weakness and weariness even as they faced and overcame the foe amid the shells and poison gas.

In each of us is a battlefield, on which the spirit either surrenders and hauls down the flag in craven capitulation or stands firm and gives battle to the end, in hope of victory.

CHILD BODILY GROWTH AS IMPORTANT AS MENTAL GROWTH.

In a big city which was ringing wth commencement orations and sending out thousands of graduates of the ordinary type, one little celebration was held, far behind the others in brilliancy of numbers, yet more promising than any of them. It was the graduation of a class of sixty children, from 6 to 14, who had attained a normal weight after six months' struggle with malnutrition.

These children had attended health classes at the school clinic every Saturday morning and had followed specific directions as to food, exercise and rest. They had memorized ten simple health commandments which would be valuable to them always, as would all the experiences connected with gaining their proper weight. The successful completion of their course represented rare co-operation between child and school and homme. Each graduate received a diploma, proud evidence of his victory.

Such an exhibition marks well the advance of modern education, which knows bodily growth to be as important as mental growth and fosters it accordingly.

In the elder day, the standard of scholarship was a brow "sicklied o'er with the pale cast of thought," gained through a highly respected performance known as "burning the midnight oil."

The modern school noting such an one would be ashamed of him drag him from his books, prescribe a course of oatmeal and milk, send him to bed at 10 o'clock, and tell him to take a nap every day.

The wise old prophetts of the ring now figure in the daily news, and they explain, like everything, why Carp will win or why he'll lose. These seventh sons of seventh sons are always here to guide us right, whenever pugilistic ones are scheduled for a drastic fight. The mantle of Elipah falls upon the wise men of the ring, and every dead game sport recalls that prophet-eering has its sting. For if the prophets all unite to say that Jack will win the scrap, and Jack is beaten in the fight, how shall each prophet save his map? The prophets told me, years ago, that Willard had a lead pipe cinch, and after seven rounds or so, poor Jack would be too dead to pinch. And so I wagered all my means, according to teh prophets' rede, and when the winners got their beans my bank account was gone to seed. The prophets said, in days of old, that Corbett was the prince of blows, and he would knock Fitzsimmons cold, among Nevada's ghastly snows. And so, to bet on Jim's success, I put my watch and cow in soak; conceive my subsequent distress—I never was so badly broke. I shall not bet on Jack or Carp, no matter what the prophets say; while they predict I'll tune my harp, and spring a mad and merry lay.

AN EDITORIAL ON ADVERTISING

In the "tables" of the seventh grade school boy, 100 cents make one dollar. And in the minds of practically everybody a dollar's equivalent is 100 cents—in money, in values.

The fact of the matter is, however, that in recent years at least nothing has been so fickle as the value of a dollar.

Gauged by the amount of merchandise it would purchase—and that is the real standard of measurement—its value shrunk and shrunk until it reached nearer the relative value of 33 cents than 100 cents.

The causes of the shrinkage were the result of war measures and methods and was as inevitable as the abnormal conditions which war produces.

But that is an old and well-known story. A later and more interesting one is that which tells how, the causes having in large measure been removed, business conditions are rapidly becoming normal and the dollar of the wise shopper is acquiring its full 100 cents face value.

Notice please, it is the wise shoppers who are getting full value for their dollars, and they are doing it by the simple expedient of following the buying suggestions in the advertising columns.

In the business readjustments which have been taking place the merchants and the manufacturers of the country have shown a very sincere desire to do their part and they have co-operated—are still co-operating—in the most practical way by making price concessions on all lines of merchandise.

Obviously they have used the advertising columns of the newspapers and the magazines to spread this price news, and those men and women have profited most who have read advertising most faithfully.

Do you belong to that class? If not then it is your duty to join it.

Whether you spend your own earned dollars or are the custodian of your husband's purse, you should read advertising for the sake of the bette. values it enables you to obtain and the economies it helps you to effect.

If there be any reader of this newspaper who still thinks that a dollar will not do its full 100 cents buying duty, let him turn through the pages of this issue and study thoughtfully the advertised articles in these columns. He will find ample proof that it will.

He can convince himself also that prices are down and that quality is assured.

Indeed one of the finest offices of advertising is its guarantee of quality. When a merchant or manufacturer identifies his name with an advertised article of merchandise, you may be sure that it is all that the advertiser claims for it. It is business suicide to misrepresent merchandise.

Upon you—the buyer—therefore, depends the value of your dollar. Spent thoughtlessly and without knowledge of where it will do its fullest duty, its purchasing power will shrink. Spent under the wise direction of advertising, it will bring you in return a full 100 cents' worth of quality merchandise.

TOWNSHIP HIGH SCHOOL BOND ISSUE LOSES AT POLLS SATURDAY BY VOTE OF 181 TO 79; ABOUT ONE FIFTH CAST BALLOTS

With only about one-fifth of a normal vote cast, showing a general indifference toward the movement, the proposition to issue $28,000 worth of bonds in Xenia township school district for the purpose of establishing a township high school in this city, was defeated Saturday, the vote being 79 "yes" and 181 "No."

The total votes cast were 260. The normal vote in Xenia township is 1,300 which dducting about 1,000 votes included in Xenia city school district, leaves about 1,200 votes in the township school district, which would be considered normal. No reason for the apparent lack of interest in the proposition can be given by those back of the movement.

The vote by precincts was as follows:

Xenia South Precinct:

Yes	No	Total Vote
28	66	94

Xenia North Precinct:

Yes	No	Total Vote
51	115	166

The proposition was brought to a special election by action of the Xenia township board of education, who claimed that the tuition the board paid for students attending Central High school was too high, and further that the township was getting none of the school funds from the state, which are based on the number of pupils educated.

It was the proposition of the board to purchase the chapel building of the Xenia Theological Seminary group with $25.000 of the bond issue and the use the other $3,000 to equip the new school. It was expected that about $5,000 would be saved from tuition now paid for students at Central high and that $3.000 more would be available from the state disposition of school funds, making $8,000 to keep up the school.

The county and city boards of education opposed the measure on the ground that plans for Central High had been changed to be more advantageous for country students following an agreement reached between the county and city boards that county students would be sent to the city school.

CADETS ON LONG END OF SCORING

The O. S. & S. O. Home Cadets defeated a pick-up team from Xenia 17-6, at the Home Diamond, Saturday afternoon.

The Xenia team used four pitchers Randall, McDonald, Regan and Clark, all trying their ability on the mound, and one of them being hit very hard. The Home lads collected seven hits off the four pitchers, the pick-up outfit making some misplays which aided the Cadets in their run-getting.

The Xenia aggregation was unable to get anyone around for the first four innings but they started things in the fifth when Yeakley broke the ice by knocking a home run into left field scoring Clark ahead of him. The Home collected four runs in the sixth and three in the seventh. The game was only a seven inning affair by agreement. The Cadets will travel to Springfield July 2, to play the Pythian Children's Home. The lineup: Xenia—E. Leahey ss; Schwab, Cowan c; Hurley 3b; Yeakley cf; Lackey 2b; Clark lf and p; Skelly, 1b; Regan rf and p; Randall, p; McDonald p; Cadets—Sherman lf; Torrence, ss; L. Nolan, p; Brewster c; Turney 2b; Braun 1b; Marsh rf; C. Nolan, Brown 3b; Lewis cf. The score:

TRINITY M. E. CHURCH ASK PASTOR'S RETURN

At the Fourth Quarterly Conference of the Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church, held Wednesday evening, June 15, a large number were present and splendid reports from all departments were given.

A unanimous request was made at the meeting for the return of the pastor, the Rev. Dr. W. F. Brown, and the district superintendent, Dr. M. A. Wiant.

"The relations between Dr. Brown and his people have been most delightful and the result has been that Trinity Church, has taken on new activity under the pastorate of Dr. Brown," church officials say.

It was decided at the meeting that nothing should be done at the coming annual conference to disturb the relations and the District Superintendent was thus instructed.

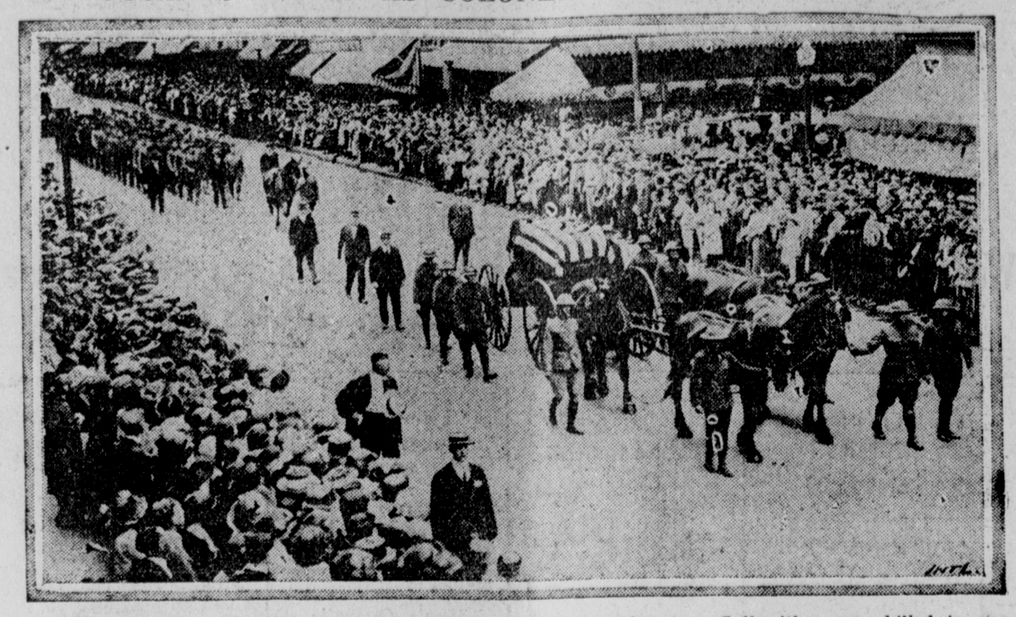
PASSING OF FAMOUS N. Y. SITE—THE CURB MARKET

The Curb Market on Board St., just below Wall St., New York City, th spot where daily for the past thirty-five years the hectic flourishing of fingers, has meant the exchange of millions of dollars, will be no longer, for on July 10 the New York Curb Brokers' Association will move into their newly erected building and thereafter all trading will be done indoors. The passing of the Curb Market will be a blow to New York's financial district inasmuch as it brought thousands of sightseers every day to watch the mad waving of hands which meant nothing to them and so much to others. The photograph shows the Curb Market in action. In the background can be seen the columns of the Subtreasury Building.

THOUSANDS MOURN AS COLONEL GALBRAITH IS BURIED



His last parade. The body of Colonel Frederick W. Galbraith, Jr., National Commander of the American Legion, on a gun caisson, escorted by boys who served under him in France, passing through the streets of Cincinnati to the cemetery, where the coffin was placed in a vault preparatory to burial in Arlington National Cemetery. Col. Galbraith was killed in an automobile accident in Indianapolis last Thursday. Thousands paid homage to the dead soldier as the body lay in state in the Music Hall in, Cincinnati, his home city.

COLLECTING A $300 KISS —FOR SWEET CHARITY'S SAKE.

Three hundred dollars for a kiss! That is what Frank C. Henderson of New York and Oklahoma paid to kiss Sigrid Holmquist, the "Mary Pickford of Sweden," at the Italian Garden Party given at the Henderson estate at Roslyn, Long Island, for the benefit of the Free Milk for Italy Fund. Miss Holmquist auctioned off the kiss, and Mr. Henderson (though his wife was present) bid up to $300 and collected, as the photo shows. The money of course, went to the fund.

BRITISH WAR VETERAN LIVES WITH BULLET IN HEART

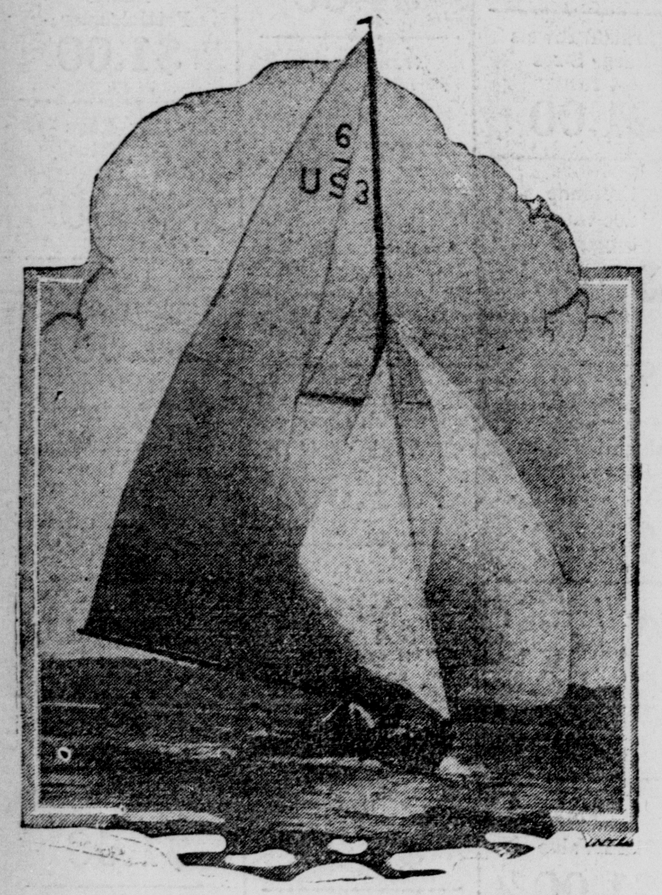
OHIO CONGRESSMANO SMOKES FORMER EMPEROR'S $2,000 PIPE.

Representative Roy C. Fitzgerald, of Dayton, Ohio, photographed in his office in Washington while taking a few puffs from a $2,000 meerchaum pipe once owned by the late Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria. The pipe, said to be one of the most remarkable specimens of meerchaum carving in the world, is owned by L. O. Shank, of Dayton.

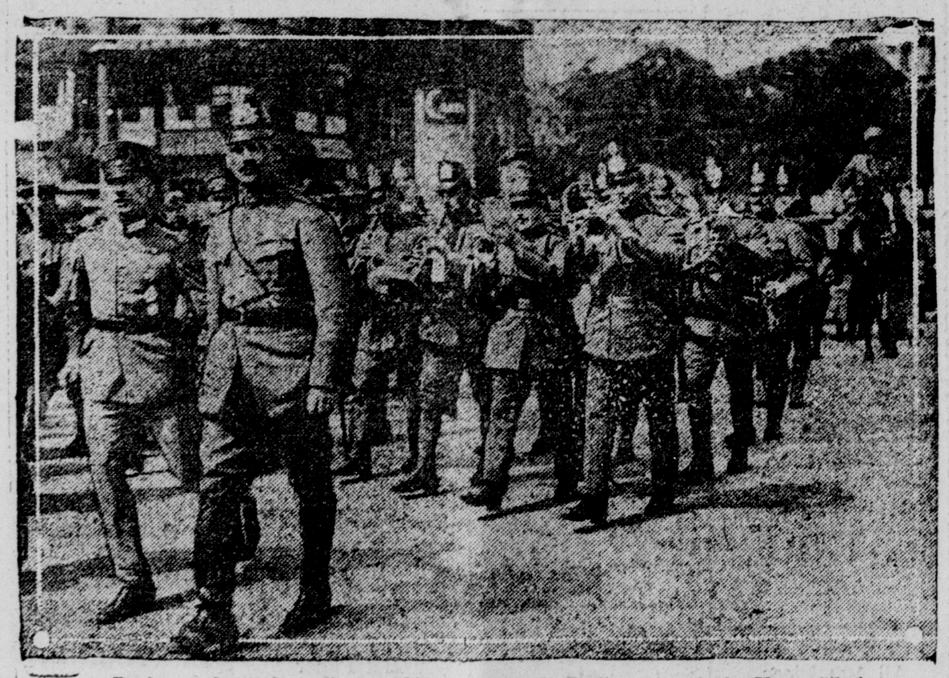
There are nine figures on the pipe illustrating the experiences of eight youths with their first try at clandestine tobacco smoking. Several of them exhibit the different degrees of nausea, while the ninth, a little girl is tugging at her brother's coat. He unable to stand upright, is being embraced by the leader of the "gang."

MAY BE U. S. CONTENDER IN INTERNATIONAL RACE



The Grebe, designed by John Gardiner and owned by a syndicate, will most likely represent the United States in the six meter yacht race for the British-American cup, to be contested off Cowes in August. The Grebe, shown in the photograph, has captured most of the preliminary races being contested in Oyster Bay, L. I.

GERMANY PLACES SECURITY POLICE IN SILESIA



Regiment of security police marching to station in Berlin to entrain for Upper Silesia.

As German officials threatened to do, they have placed several regiments of security police in various sections of Upper Silesia to enforce Germany's claim to those sections and prevent revolts. The British government has agreed to the plan of Premier Briand of France to name a commission to study fixation of boundaries of Upper Silesia. Residents of the district some time ago voted overwhelmingly to join Germany instead of Poland.

"YOU AIN'T SEEN NO HARD LUCK"

If you are sorry for yourself—if the whole works are wrong and the world is dark and dreary—look at this picture and cheer up. In the Massachusetts Hospital School they call him "Sunny "Jack" Guiney. Study the picture, and you will know why. The other day his team, every member of which is a cripple, played ball at Franklin Park, Boston, and "Sunny Jack" did the honors from the slab. Here is a picture of the cheery-looking fellow photographer during the play, while pitching a hot one over the plate.

Armenian Diplomat Here To Thank America for Aid

Grabiel Noradounghian, vice-president of the Armenian Mission to the Peace Conference, who recently arrived in New York from Europe. He is here to thank the American people through President Harding for the aid given to his stricken country.

Editor Names Governor of Alaska

Scott C. Bone, a former Seattle publisher who was publicity manager for the Republican national Committee in the 1920 campaign has been nominated by President Harding to be Governor of Alaska. Mr. Bone was formerly editor-in-chief of the Seattle Post Intelligencer and for a time was chairman of the Alaska bureau of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce. One of the considerations which, it is understood, caused President Harding to make the appointment is Mr. Bone's wide experience with problems of newsprint paper and wood pulp, which industries the administration expects to develop extensively from the Alaskan raw material.

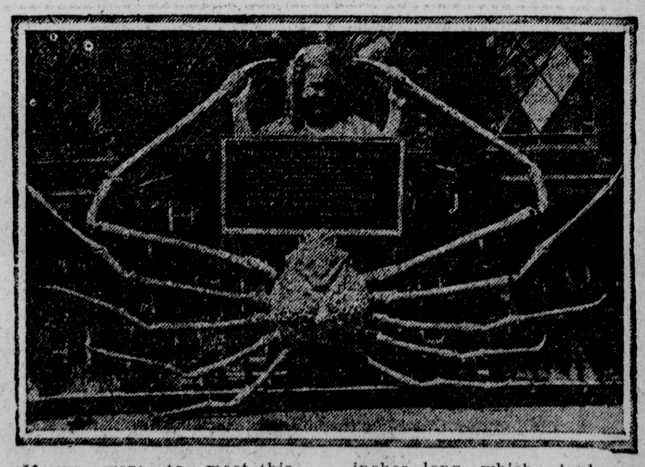
What Does the Future Hold for Him?

A new portrait of Prince Wilhelm, eldest son of the former Crown Prince of Germany. Prince Wilhelm who is now 15 years old, is living with his mother, ex-Crown Princess Cecile, in Berlin. It is said that should Germany ever become a monarchy that Prince Wilhelm would in all probability be placed on the throne.

TO PAINT PRESIDENT'S PORTRAIT

H. A. Rosko, prominent artist of New York City, has been granted the privilege of painting a portrait of President Harding and the President poses for him a few minutes every day whenever he can spare the time. The photograph shows the President posing for Mr. Rosco at the White House.

MAMMOTH SEA-CRAB CAPTURED



If you were to meet this Kaempferi") while in bathing it is very evident that your afternoon's pleasure would be over. Thi enormous cdustacean, the largest crab ever caught is estimated to be more than 500 years old. The front claws of the crab are each fifty five inches long, which is longer than the entire length of six-year old Rita Rogan, shown in the photograph. The monster is on exhibition at the Nicholas Restaurant One Hundred and Seventy-eighth street and St. Nicholas avenue, New York City. The giant crab was caught in the Yellow Sea last winter.

DINNER STORIES

Plaisantin offered in payment of a bill a gold piece which had a suspicious ring.

"Here, you've given me one of those false coins that the counterfeiters have just been arrested for making," said the merchant.

"Impossible," answered Plaisantin. "It is dated 1863. If it were false, surely it would have been found out before this."

"Jedge," he mumbled, "mah conscience does trouble me. Is yo' got a charge against me?"

"Why, no, uncle; I haven't any charge."

"Jedge, mah conscience suttinly am disturbin'. Yo' ain't missed a couple of yo' chickens, has yo'?"

"No, uncle, I haven't; but, even if there were a couple gone, I wouldn't know it. I never count them."

"Don' nebber count 'em? Mah-h goodness. Mah conscience am appeased. Good-day, suh, good-day."

The little country inn was picturesque but leaky. Late one night a guest rang his bell urgently, and the landlord answered.

"I say, look here!" snorted the indignant traveler, who was still in bed. "This roof's letting in the rain, and I'm drenched!"

"Very good, sir!" remarked the landlord amiably, as he retired. A few minutes later, according to Tit-Bits, he came back with a large washtub.

"This will make things right, sir," he said, still amiably. "I'll just put this on your chest; then, when it's full, ring the bell, or shout out, and I'll have another empty one ready."

The rector met the church warden just before the service the other Sunday morning, and beckoned to him.

"Mr. Grimes," he said, "we had better take up the collection before the sermon this morning."

"Very well, if you wish it," returned the church warden. "But what is your reason?"

He controlled his feelings very well, for he was very conservative and hated any innovation.

But the rector was adamant.

"I think it will be wiser," he remarked. "The fact is, I am going to preach on the subject of economy."

"Grace's husband has insured himself for $50,000."

"The selfish brute! He ought to be shot!"

Two Swedes were walking along the railroad track one day—the next day the coroner was holding an inquest. Petersen was testifying. "Ole and me walked along the track. I hear the whistle blow and I get off the track. The train goes by; I go on the track again and walk along. Pretty soon I see Ole's hat. I walk farther and then I see Ole's leg. Pretty soon I see Ole's other leg. Then, after a while, I see Ole's head, and then I say: 'By Jinks, something muster happen to Ole!'"

"And, oh, John, I saw the loveliest hat for only eighty-seven dollars!"

"When are they going to deliver it?"

GOVERNOR CANCELS PAROLE ON PROTEST OF AMERICAN LEGION

Little Rock, Ark.—"Uncle Tom" Adkisson, sixty-three, illiterate ring leader of Arkansas' draft resisters, has been returned to the State prison to complete a two-and-a-half-year term for manslaughter, Governor McRae recently paroled the aged mountaineer for good behavior, but following protestations of former service men and citizens the Governor cancelled the parole.

Adkisson as the leader of a determined band of mountaineers who staged a ten-day battle in the hills near Hober Springs in July, 1918, when Federal authorities began a round-up ot this States's 30,000 alleged draft evaders.

Hardy Adkisson, twenty-five and Bliss Adkisson, twenty-six, sons of the old man, were within the draft age. The registration board denied them exemption on the ground that they had wives to support for the reason that all of the Adkissons resided together.

Barricading themselves in their home the Adkisson clan, assisted by other illiterate mountaineers, defied the Government. Two companies of machine gunners from Little Rock surrounded the home in the hills and after a ten-day battle, the draft resisters were captured. Porter Hazelwood, a deputy sheriff was shot to death by the Adkisson clan.

Bliss Adkisson, arraigned in court pleaded guilty to a murder charge and is now serving a twenty-one-year sentence. His brother Hardy, was given a two-year term.

Following a stay of execution, granted so that he might care for his family, the elder Adkisson entered the penitentiary in August, 1920, to begin a two-and-a-half year term. In May, 1921, he was paroled. The American Legion of Arkansas protested vehemently and Governor McRae ordered his rearrest and return to prison, where he is now a trusty.

SAYS U. S. IS SHORT 25,000 PHYSICIANS

Washington, June 20. — The United States is short 25,000 physicians, Dr. Roy Upham, Brooklyn, declared at the opening session of the annual convention here of the American Institute of Homeopathy. Long and arduous study required of medical students and inability to speedily build up a profitable business practice tends to discourage prospective doctors, he said.

In an effort to assist medical students, through college, wives of members of the Institute have formed the Woman's National Homeopathic League, Dr. Upham said, adding that it was hoped activities of the league would help to relieve the shortage of physicians.

AMERICAN PASTOR TO MARRY COUPLE

Paris, June 20.—When the Duke of Marlborough marries Miss Gladys Deacon next Saturday the ceremony will be performed by an American pastor especially imported for the occasion. Under the rules of the Church of England, the guilty party in a divorce cannot remarry.

On account of this, the duke failed to find a bishop or minister of his church who would perform the ceremony. The identity of the American clergyman who will wed the duke to the American sportswoman and bridesmaid for the former duchess is being kept secret.

The wedding will take place in the home of Eugene Higgins a cousin of Miss Deacon.

The duke has declared to friends that he intends to take up a permanent residence in Paris.

NEW BATHING BEACH PLANNED

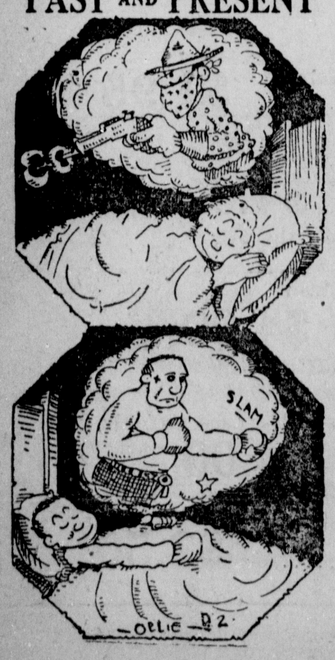
PAST AND PRESENT



SOMEBODY GOT BABE RUTH'S GOAT, SO MARY OFFERED HIM LITTLE LAMB

Babe Ruth, Miss O'Brine and the little lamb.

Mary's little lamb, "Supreme," followed her to the Chicago White Sox ball park to see Babe Ruth knock a home run. "Supreme" was a gift to Miss Virginia Mary O'Brine, who is starring in "Mary" at one of the Chicago theaters, and was selected from among 25,000 other lambs at the stock yards. Babe did not get a home run, for evidently some one in the Windy City got Babe's goat, so Mary offered him her mascot, "Supreme," for luck.

TRACTION BILL IS KILLED

Springfield, Ill., June 20.—The Thompson traction bill, sponsored by the mayor of Chicago, was killed Saturday night just before the senate adjourned sine die. A motion to reconsider was lost, 22 to 22, after Governor Small sent a late message to the senate making a plea for the bill which provided a sort of municipal ownership.

ROCKEFELLER GOING TO CHINA

New York, June 20.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., will go to China this summer it was announced to attend the dedication of new buildings at Pekin Union Medical College on Sept. 15. He will head a delegation of the trustees of the Rockefeller foundation. The buildings were erected by the China medical board of the foundation. An international medical conference will be part of the dedication exercises.

DELINQUENT TAXES TO BE COLLECTED

Washington, June 20.— Millions of dollars in delinquent taxes and penalties will be collected, the internal revenue bureau estimates, as a result of nation-wide tax drive to begin in July by Commissioner Blair. "Flying squadrons" are to visit every large city in the country.

Special attention, Mr. Blair said, will be directed to the collection of the excise tax on sales by manufacturers, the transportation tax the so-called luxury tax and taxes on jewelry, toilet articles, proprietary medicines, soft drinks and amusements.

Several million dollars are being lost by the government annually through failure of retailers to collect the full tax on toilet articles and medicines. Soft drink vendors are to be investigated, he said, and required to keep proper records, and the recent arrests of ticket scalpers in New York will be followed by similar prosecution where theater ticket brokers fail to file monthly tax returns.

OFFICIALS PROTECT ALIENS

Indianapolis, Ind., June 17.—Gitson County officials, in spirit as well as in fact, are proceeding, to give protection to foreigners in coal mining districts where a vigilantes movement last week caused 150 workers to flee from their homes, Adjutant General Harry B. Smith reported to Governor Worren TT. McGray.

AIRPLANE LINE INVADES WILDEST AFRICA

A French company has started an aero line to link Gayenne, the capital town of French Guyane, with the gold fields of Maroni of South Africa. The distance is but 260 kilometers, but the country is covered with virgin forests, and the journey ordinarily takes a week by land and sea, whereas the airplanes have made the trip in two hours. The town of Maroni is a bagnio, where the convicts are employed in the mines. The photo shows the primitive hangar built on the bank of the Maroni river. Note the group of "convicts" serving life terms.

FORECAST SHOWER OF METEORS JUNE 27 ON OLD GLOBE

London. — Pons-Winnecke, the short-period comet, which is hurtling through space at a speed of many thousand miles an hour towards the earth, will not have the best of the "bump," according to Professor A. Fowler, chief lecturer in astronomy at the Imperial Science College South Kensington.

"It is generally accepted," said the professor, "that we shall come in contact with its tail, if at all. In thi event it is possible Pons-Winnecke may become so disintegrated that other self-respecting comets will disown him."

"One can picture some scientist in a few weeks' time picking up a small meteor, the mortal remains of this cyclonic traveller in our space. "Alas, poor Pons, we knew him well!" Will be doubtless the comment of the astronomical world.

Professor Fowler was the first scientist to prove that the tails of comet have carbonic oxide gas instead of the deadly cyanogen gas, as was previously supposed.

"When the tail of Pons comes in contact with this earth," continued Professor Fowler, "vast quantities of carbonic oxide, which is an odorless gas wil be absorbed in the atmosphere of this planet. There is no cause for alarm, since the proportion of carbonic oxide is so small in relation to the immense volume of atmosphere around the earth that the effect will be imperceptible. People do not realize how many million tons the atmosphere we breath weighs. At ground level the weight is fourteen pounds to the square inch. In addition to gas the tail will contain meteoric dust—that is particles of iron and nickel. This dust is not likely to reach us.

"As to how a comet is formed I cannot tell you, any more than I can tell you, from a scientific point of view how the earth was formed. Perhaps they come from gases thrown off from the sun, which are gradually cooled. On the other hand leading authorities on astronomy say that it is clear that comets cannot have originated within the limits of the solor system. They propound the fascinating theory that comets such as Pons-Winnecke come from a distance in space so great that it is impossible to think or speak of it in terms of miles.

Professor Fowler added that Jupiter, to whose family Pons-Winnecke belongs may cause a disturbance and to alter the path of the comet that it will reach its nearest point to the earth about June 27, the date on which it is expected.

"When the public interest in Halley's comet became acute I worked out the exact date of the arrival," continued Professor Fowler "but I should be involved in laborious calculations for days on end if I were to ascertain the day which Pons will drop his visiting card in the shape of a shower of meteorites."

Washington, June 17.—Columbus ranks 22nd among the cities of the country in postal savings deposits it was announced by Postmaster General Hays. Postal savings at the Columbus postoffice June 1, amounted to $712,593 according to the report.

These Twin Babies escaped
Chafing, Rashes and Skin Irritation by use of Sykes Comfort Powder

Grand Rapids, Mich. — "These twin babies have been under my care since birth. Not a day has passed without the use of Sykes Comfort Powder. They have a beautiful skin and have never had ablemish of chafing, rashes, scalding, prickly heat from which so many babies suffer I wish every mother could know about Sykes Comfort Powder.'—Nettie C. Lavan, R. N., Grand Rapids, Mich.
The reason Sykes Comfort Powder is successful in such cases is because it contains six healing, antiseptic ingredients not found in ordinary talcums.

ADMIRAL SIMS IS HONORED IN ENGLAND

Admiral William S. Sims has just reached England, where he went to receive a degree of L. L. D. from Oxford university. Upon his arrival at Liverpool he was greeted by a guard of honor and officers of the British navy. He is shown here acknowledging cheers of the English sailors.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

"Undecided": Do not phone the boy. He would have every reason to think you were running after him. If he were very much interested in you he would find a way to see you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl nineteen years of age and have come from a town near here. While there I went with a young man of whom I thought a great deal. We were always together, but since I have come here he cares very little about me. I go there twice a week and always find him "peeved," so I try to make up with him.

He has only been to see me twice and because some of my friends take great pleasure in coming here and taking me out, he gets angry. People tell me that he is jealous of me and he doesn't want anyone else to look at me.

I surely love him and there isn't a thing that I wouldn't do for him. We have been angry at each other for two weeks and have just made up. What would you do if you were in my place? LOVESICK GIRL.

I would not advise you to center your affections on a young man who spends most of the time pouting. Such a person usually develops into a husband who goes for days without talking to his wife.

You are very young and should enjoy the companionship of various friends. Do not put yourself out to keep peace with the young man from the other town. If he wants to be friendly, respond, but when he pouts, leave him alone.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two girl friends and we both go to common school. We had a very fine teacher at the first of the term and she got along fine with the scholars, but she quit her school and it almost broke our hearts. In her place they put a thing which never smiles or anything and she is there from "pull." The man who got her the position comes over and gives us a balling out about every day and we want to get through the examination, but he is so mean that we don't know what to do.

What can we do to get along better with our teacher?

BOTH ANXIOUS.

Your letter shocks me and fills me with pity for you. Instead of opening your hearts to your new teacher, you have hardened them and through your attitude of "hate" have made teaching almost impossible for her. To speak of her as a "thing" reflects upon you more than it does her.

Try to put yourselves in her place. Hasn't she been tried by the pupils until she is nervous and irritable? If you show her respect and kindness instead of contempt she will respond, I am sure, and will be a far better and kinder teacher than you can picture now. Do not be disrespectful just because the rest of the class is. Show that you are well bred and kind. When you open your hearts, your minds will respond also, and you will find your studies more interesting and that you learn more quickly.

Nothing shows commonness and lack of breeding quicker than lack of respect such as you have displayed. Get your lessons and you will pass your examinations. If you fail, do not make the ridiculous statement that your teacher "flunked" you. Be big enough to credit the failure to your own ignorance.

REALM OF BOOKS

"MAIN STREET AND OTHER POEMS," and "THE CIRCUS," by Joyce Kilmer are recently published works of this much lamented late writer. The former is a collection of "Happy Songs" and the latter is a volume of essays and papers which is the last of the literary legacy of this poet and essayist.

"THE SISTERS-IN-LAW" by Gertrude Atherton is a study of San Francisco society which is brilliant, intimate and sanely satiric in its discernment of the follies, the strength, the artificiality, the justifiable pride of aristocratic tradition.

Mrs. Atherton is at her best in this novel, broad in vision, epic in the sweep of its drama from the women when Alexina Groome's woman's soul begins to expand, with the barred gates of her fool's paradise behind her, til the climax of the primative struggle of the two women for the same love.

"THE MOUNTEBANK," by Wm. J. Locke is a story of a man who is probably the most beloved of all the wonderful characters Locke has immortalized, a man born in circus tent, who lived a fun-maker's life until the great war came, who was a private at is beginning, a brigadier general at its end, who could then have married into the English artistocracy but chose honor, until fate released him, the ties that bound him to a woman who had shared his ups and downs in fortune. Only Locke could make such a man stand out as a worthy successor of the Beloved Vagabond, "Doggie" Trevor, John Baltazar—a man you love. And Locke has done it.

"GREAT AMERICAN ISSUES," by John Hays Hammond and Jeremiah W. Jenks discusses our political and economic situation under a variety of topics. These are questions which cannot be sidestepped. You will have to face them and be ready to answer them. The future of America depends upon what the answer will be. No one who has the interest of his country at heart can afford not to know what these great problems are. This book will enable you to understand them and will help you to fulfil your duties as a citizen.

TUB RACE AT A STONY LAKE RESORT

PREPARING HONEYMOON DINNER ON KAWARTHA CANOE TRIP

Ages ere the voyageur and the missionary penetrated the wilds of Ontario, Kawartha was what it is today, a summer playground. Only the original name remains to remind us that this was the "Bright Waters and Happy Lands" of the Ojibways, the Hurons, the Algonquins and other Indian tribes. Through its maze of waterways glided their birch bark canoes and on the tree-bordered shores of mainland and islands burned their camp fires.

The paddle still sings its summer song and bright colored canoes slip through the blue waters while camp fires gleam nightly in Kawartha during summer months, but it is an army of pleasure-seeking pale-faces who enjoy this pine-scented lake district today.

Kawartha embraces fourteen beautiful lakes—Scugog, Sturgeon, Cameron, Balsam, Pigeon, Bald, Sand, Buckhorn, Chemong, Deer, Lovesick, Stony, Clear and Katchewanooka. Each has its unique attractions while sandy beaches and excellent fishing are common to all. Accommodations for visitors are abundant and varied. Cottages, isolated and in colonies, and hotels ranging from simple cabin type to large, well-staffed establishments, are strewn about the shores. This is the region of summer homes, here the tired statesman builds himself a lordly retreat on some commanding site; here the busy city mother houses her kiddies in a cozy cottage and turns them loose to play in the woods and water while she enjoys a book and hammock beneath the pines.

But above all, this is the paradise of the canoeist. Paddling and drifting may be lengthened into a month-long delightful outing. A pup tent, blanket, pail, frying pan and a small supply of provisions are sufficient outfit as landings are frequent. It is quite easy to arrange one's schedule so as to eat and sleep at various resorts. Starting from Bobcaygeon on Sturgeon Lake and working toward Peterboro on the Otonobee River will take you via Oak Orchard, a very de luxe resort; Buckhorn where there are two good hotels and fine fishing; Burleigh Falls with its popular Park Hotel and cottages, and dozens of hotels and camps around Stony and Clear Lakes. Should you weary of paddling, there is always the opportunity to transfer yourself and canoe to one of the lake steamers. The fishing, bathing and dancing at the various resorts offer inducement to stop and play.

TWENTY SIX ARE INITIATED INTO K. OF C. SUNDAY

Twenty six candidates were initiated into Xenia Council, No. 1301, Knights of Columbus, at special exercises held at the knights of Pythias Castle, Detroit and Second streets, Sunday.

The exercises were among the most imposing and best attended ever held by Xenia Council, and visiting Knights were present from Dayton, Springfield, Wilmington and other Councils in this vicinity, the hall being packed for the ceremonies.

The services began at eight o'clock in the morning when the candidates, local and visiting Knights, marched to St. Brigid's Catholic church in a body, where High Mass was celebrated at 8:30 o'clock by the Rev. Martin Walsh, O. P., of St. Aquinas College, Columbus.

The Rev. Walsh in his sermon dwelt on three great truths that should be the guiding points for Catholic young men. These are truthfulness, honesty and sobriety. On each of these subjects he dwelt at length, explaining the virtue of honesty and justice and truth, and urging sobriety as the advice to every young man.

The first degree team of Xenia Council exemplified the first degree on the candidates at 10:30 o'clock at the K. of P. Hall, after the Knights had marched back from the church. Although it was the first time the local team had worked, the degree was one of the prettiest given during the day. The candidates returned at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon for the second degree, which was exemplified by Springfield Council.

The third degree was given by Al J. Ward and staff of Dayton, at three o'clock and was one of the most successful ever given by that degree team in this city. Following the third degree, the last given, the exercises closed with prayer led by the Rev. A. A. Burke. Other priests attending the exemplification of the third degree were the Rev. William P. O.Connor, of Jamestown, the Rev. Frank Dillion of Cincinnati, and the Rev. Ertle, of Wilmington.

The newly initiated Knights, members of the degree teams and local Knights to the number of one hundred, banqueted at the Elks' Club at six o'clock. Dr. W. A. Galloway, physician of Xenia Council, was also the guest of the Knights at the banquet.

The class of Knights initiated Sunday is as follows: Lawrence Kehoe, Thomas J. Finn, John W. Purdom, George A. Donnelly, Arthur Donovan, H. J. Brumagem, Michael Foody, Richard Sayre, Michael Rachford, Emmett H. Owens, Martin Kennedy, James Carder, Edward Hilliard, Paul Dewine, John Phillips, Marcus Shoup, Jr., Charles Mangan, William Dewine, Gerald Kelble, Fred Fox, Eugene Leahey, Joseph Jacobs, J. R. Conway, George, James and Frank Taylor.

ATTENDS GRADUATING EXERCISES SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Conwell, of Chestnut street, attended the 43rd annual commencement of the University of Cincinnati, on Saturday, when their son, Dr. H. F. Conwell, received his degree in medicine. Dr. Conwell was one of a class of sixty two, out of a class of three hundred and seventy eight receiving diplomas.

Dr. Conwell matriculated in 1917, after spending two years in preparatory work at Heidelberg University, at Tiffin, Ohio. He also took a special course in bacteriology at the University of Michigan, at Ann Arbor, during the summer of 1918.

During the war every member of his class enlisted in the service of the United States Army, and Dr. Conwell served one year and a day. During the "flu" epidemic, Dr. Conwell with six others volunteered to assist in caring for those stricken, and for a strenuous six weeks they cared for as high as sixty six at a time.

The principal address at the commencement exercises Saturday was given by Judge Rufus B. Smith, and the diplomas were presented by the President of the University. Dr. Conwell will enter the Bethesda Hospital July 1st, as interne for one year.

LESSONS IN FINANCE FOR WOMEN

The urgent necessity for caution when considering investments should ever be remembered by women. The average woman with money to invest is too easily led into unsafe speculation—much more so than the average man. This has been proved time and time again when various "get rich quick" schemes have come to their logical end. Failure of fake stock propositions usually means that hundreds and in some cases thousands of women have lost their all.

Women with funds to invest can always be absolutely assured of complete safety by consulting with a reputable investment house or banker. If any person who is "a friend of a friend of yours" wants to "let you in on the ground loor," you can ordinarily expect to eventually "land in the basement." Get all the details of the "opportunity" and then seek advice from competent sources. You may rest assured that the advice you receive from the banker or investment house will be for your best welfare.

Seek Banker's Advice

If you are not a close student of finance—and very few women are—you should follow the same course that you would were you ill or in need of legal advice. In those cases you would consult a doctor or lawyer. Surely it is just as important to seek advice from a banker or investment house when money is to be invested.

The dealer in investments whether a bank or the type of institution that specializes in securities of various kinds, spends all his time studying various forms of investment just as the doctor studies the various types of diseases. It is logical therefore, to assume that he is an investment specialist and usually fully capable of giving you the best advice to suit your individual investment case. Advice from an investment banker of good standing—and it is easy to find out whether it is good or bad—will mean the complete safety of your invested funds.

It is well for all investors, men or women to bear in mind that were it not for the investment houses, there would seldom be an opportunity for the person with but a few hundred or a thousand dollars to invest with assured safety of principal, as compared with the opportunities presented to those of great wealth.

Small Interests Worthless

The investment house functions for the small investor as well as the large. In fact it is the former class that receives the greatest benefit from these institutions. It is a ell-known fact that thousands of people would be obliged to depend entrely upon savings banks for whatever return they might expect from their money had not the investment banker made it possible through real estate bands and other similar forms of securities of small denominations for them to increase their income with complete safety.

Don't risk the dollars of your principal for a few extra cents interest. Abnormal interest return is never worth the worry over loss of principal. Keeping your principal intact is far greater satisfaction that any return beyond a reasonable amount you may be promised for it.

Safeguarding the funds of its clients is the primary and most important responsibility of the reputable investment house. Women particularly shou.d avail themselves of the facilities for safe and sound investment offered by organizations which in some cases have spent generations in studying the needs of both small and large investors. Always consult an investment banker before investing your funds. You will then be sure that your money is safe.....

TEUTONIC DIVORCE MILLS GRINDING OUT SEPARATIONS

Berlin.—The divorce wave following the war has hit Germany with full force. English divorce courts worked overtime the first year after the armistice straightening out the marital tangles resulting from the war. Germany reacted more slowly, but the Teutonic divorce mills are now grinding out separation papers with full German efficiency.

"In the year 1920 in Berlin there was one divorce granted for every eighth marriage consummated," declares Berliner Tageblatt, following an investigation into the cause of the domestic disagreements. "Children still play the major role in holding together families, for one-half of the divorced couples during the past year have been childless."

"Continental marriage conventions are notoriously different from those in the United States and cases where men and their wives separate and go their own ways without resorting to the divorce court are so common that the social Grundies scarcely ever raise an eyebrow. The continental custom whereby husbands and wives agree to disagree makes more marked than ever the growing recourse to the courts."

"In the majority of cases the wife was accused as the guilty party," continues the Tageblatt, "But the new freedom brought by the revolution, with the reduced working hours, has brought disaster to many formerly happy families. The husband formerly worked eleven or twelve hours a day, and when he came home in the evening he was a good enough father.

"Since the eight-hour day has come into fashion, and in many lines the man has even shorter hours, the husband spends much of his time in bars, race-tracks or in jovial society—or if they do come home they are in the house so much that it leads to friction and finally the divorce court."

REVEILLE.

Give me the note, O Trumpeter!
Yea, they have thrust me into hell,
Bound me and beaten dumb my lips
And stopped mine ears; but do thou stir
The silence with thy golden cry
And I will break my bonds and sing
Till the whole void shall catch my voice
And fling it to the frosty stars,
Bidding the living dead rejoice,
Saying, "O brothers of eclipse,
They cannot harm the soul that wills,
Nor shams it with their scourge of ills!"
Sound, yet again, O Trumpeter!

Today's Talk

by George Matthew Adams

Wanted—$25,000-a-Year Man!

In a crisis it's the half-way men that have to go.

Those who have the courage and foresight and initative to plough through things, stay when the big fight looms.

It is difficult for the ragged edged sort of men to understand this truth. They think that they should be cared for in better style. But the masterful man in a tight emergency doesn't think of himself but of the structure which he has helped to build.

The $25,000-a-year-man—and those bigger than this—are always workers in easy strain because they SEE big. And sight in business brings greater rewards than almost anything else. If you can see big, you are bound to DO big.

There are more worlds to conquer these days than at any other time in history. But you have to go after them!

The contented-with-his-job man gets in the way of big worlds when they come towards him and so is either crushed by them or else pushed down the sidings. But the creator and initiator gives a good jump and gets astern of the oncoming world and—goes ahead with it!

Business is dull—but businesses are hunting high and low for $25,000-a-year men.

Because these are the kind of men who dig the graves for dull times in business. Business founded on visions germinate in dull times. Earthquakes or floods or panics can't kill them.

The president of the United States has just appointed an advertising man to head the Shipping Board of the country. I can remember when this man was only an extraordinary hustler in the business he now owns. President Harding said he wanted a man who could get things done. He said that he didn't have to be an expert man at building boats or ships to fill his task. The President showed great wisdom in this appointment. A. D. Lasker will make good.

Big men are all the time coming to the top—just like cream!

Worth is a great commodity. It is the oxygen of high achievement. And if you would rise, you must breathe it at every breath.

Ford
THE UNIVERSAL CAR

ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. Edsel B. Ford, President of the Ford Motor Company, gives out the following statement, regarding reduction in prices.

In part he says: "The big reductions last fall were made in anticipation of low materials costs which we are now getting the benefit of, and this fact together with increased manufacturing efficiency and the unprecedented demand for Ford cars, particularly during the past three months permitting maximum production, have made the price reduction of two weeks ago possible.

"The Fordson tractor is still being sold at less than the cost to produce, on account of the recent big price reductions, and it is impossible, therefore, to make any further ut in the price of the tractor."

We will gladly advise you concerning the delivery of a Fordson tractor or the particular type of car in which you are interested. Just phone us or drop us a card.

It is hoped that arrangements will be made to have international matches between the United States and Spain.

YOUNG STILLMAN STANDS BY MOTHER IN DIVORCE CASE

New York, June 20.—James Stillman, Jr., or "Bud," as he is known to his schoolmates, took the leading publicity role in the sensational divorce case of the former banker, James Stillman, today, folowing his interview in which he denounced his father and revealed that a split has accurred among the children with his sister, Ann, supporting his father.

Young Stillman—he is only 17—is a student at Milton academy. He has been "cramming" for examinations which began today. His intervie in support of his mother, was the most striking human-interest utterance that has come out of the whole sensational case.

It was learned from an authoritative source today that Mrs. Stillman will demand that the charge of illegitimacy, brought by her husband against her young son Guy, be dismissed from the divorce hearings are resumed before Referee Gleason, Jun 28. For the time being Mrs. Stillman has centered her fight in behalf of her little son.

According to present plans of Stillman's counsel, the plaintiff's evidence in support of his illegitimacy charge will be completed when the hearings are resumed and then Mrs. Stilman can begin her counter move. The demand for the dismissal of the charge against Guy must me made by Attorney John E. Mack, guardian at law for Guy.

It is reported that Stillman is preparing a new offer for a settlement but so far as known, no definite developments have taken place in this connection.

Mrs. Florence Leeds, the co-respondent in Mrs. Stillman's counter action for divorce, has dropped from sight. Her friends said they could not confirm the report that Stillman had broken with her and had given her $500,000 as well as offering to support and educate little Jay Leeds.

Mrs. Stillman alleges that her husband is the father of Jay.

REFLECTIONS OF A POOR RICH BOY

"It is sort of hard to say it, but I don't believe I have a father any more.

"The last time I saw father, he put his hand to me, but I refused to take it.

"I think it is downright mean of my father, because of the attitude he has taken with mother.

"I cannot recognize as my father the man who is trying to ruin mother.

"Gosh, sister Ann has me puzzled. She knows everything that is going on and yet she turns from mother to my father.

"I don't think my father ever did love my mother.

"One night I saw father with another woman, but he said he only went with women to such harmless things as tea parties."—(From an Interview with James (Bud) Stillman.

CONGRESSMEN TO REDUCE BY DRILLS

Washington — The Congressional belt measure is expected shortly to undergo drastic reductions, if present plans continue to progress.

Under the rasping voice of a Marine Corps physical instructor, fresh from his duties of putting the leathernecks through their paces, members of Congress daily twist through the throes of the famous Swedish drill, the most trying physical drill ever devised by a Swede, or anyone else, to believe the marines who have experienced it.

Daily in the House gymnasium corpulent representatives, clad in gym suits roll over the floor, bend jump and do other fat-chasing stunts. Occasionally the instructor, Sergeant W. C. Forse, who is at home with the padded gloves or on the wrestling mat takes on more ambitious pupils for a short bout.

All this takes place in the House gymnasium, a comparatively little-known institution, founded by certain vigorous members of Congress, unanimously deserted by the fat ones when the first blast of hot weather hit the Capitol last year and now resurrected and going strong.

WOMEN RESENT CHARGE THAT THEY ARE MERCILESS

Denver.—Attention, ladies!

Scream loud and scream long when confronted by a burglar or a footpad!

This is the advice of Chief of Police "Rug" Williams, given in a series of "Hints on Home Protection," for the benefit of the female of the species.

A woman's best defense against attack is her voice, Williams declares and says that the best and quickest thing for her to do when confronted by an intruder is to scream—scream at the top of her voice—and the more terrified the pitch the more successful her effort is likely to be. Because, the chief adds, either the burglar will flee or someone will come to her aid.

Time is too often limited in emergency cases for a woman to rush to a pillow, or a bureau drawer, to grasps a revolver and even when she does get hold of a gun, the chief thinks the chances are she will not know how to use it. "So just scream scream, scream!"

And the high mogul of Denver's Police Department adds a few "don'ts" to the advice to women.

"Don't slip over to the grocery store and leave the doors open.

"Don't go out at night leaving the house black dark. A thief works best under cover of darkness.

"Raise the shades, light up dimly and lock the house before going out for an evening.

"Don't hide the front door key under the porch mat for 'sonny' or 'sister' when they get home from school. A prowler watching the house is certain to discover the secret."

PROPOSES CHANGE IN REPARATIONS

Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the Exchequer and chairman of the London Joint city and Midland Bank, who proposes a reparation change to counterbalance the huge German exports which will according to him, harm the British trade within a few years. "If Germany could get her trade going," he said, "it is probable that by the third year her industry would be running with such energy and volume as would enable her to meet the demands made on her.

TWO ARE KILLED AS FLYING BOAT DROPS INTO RIVER

Troy, N. Y., June 20.—Don Campbell, 31, and Harry Beattie, 18, of Watervliet were killed and Schuyler Mocharie, 22, of Albany seriously injured Sunday afternoon when a giant hydroairplane piloted by Campbell was wrecked in shallow water in the Hudson River south of the new federal dam.

Campbell, the pilot, seemed to be executing a nose dive after flying exceedingly low over the grounds of the Laureate Boat Club. Evidently he was not high enough to complete the dive. The nose of the machine struck the gravel bottom. Captain William Nial of the boat club headed a rescuing party which was hampered by the tide rising so fast it threatened to drown Mocharie before he could be extricated. The machine was owned by the Hudson Valley Air Line and was being tuned up for passenger carrying.

Don M. Campbell was a native of Illinois. At the outbreak of the world war he enlisted in the aviation section of the signal corps and was later an instructor at Kelley Field, Texas.

Sunday's fatal crash was the first accident of any kind he had ever had. Since his dicharge from the army he had been superintendent in one of the largest airplane factories in the United States which position he resigned May 1, to become vice president and general manager of the Hudson Valley Air Line Inc.

CHURCH SURVEY IN 62 COUNTIES ENDS

Rural church survey work has been completed in 62 Ohio counties, B.F. Lamb, secretary of the Ohio Federation of churches announced. The survey in ten others is nearly finished while no work has been done in 16 other counties.

Lamb declared every effort would be made to complete the survey before autumn. The effort will be aided by a pledge of $5000 from the committee on Social and Religious Surveys, New York, contingent on the raising of enough additional money by the federation to finish Lamb said.

Surveys are in progress in the following counties: Medina, Marion Wood, Preble, Noble, Muskingum, Logan, Clermont, Jefferson and Stark. The following counties are yet to be organized: Montgomery, Knox, Warren, Hocking, Vinton, Lawrence, Athens, Brown, Morgan Washington Tuscarawas Columbiana and Ashtabula.

INSTITUTE DATES ARE ANNOUNCED

Wilmington, June 20.— There will be several teachers' institutes in Ohio the same week as the Clinton county institute which will be held heir the week of August 22. to 26, according to an official list of meetings to be held in all parts of Ohio.

Clinton county has joined with several adjoining counties in a circuit or chautauqua plan and in this manner much better speakers can be obtained.

LAUGHS AT STARS; RECEIVES FINE

Chicago,—This is a fair warning that visitors may not laugh at the shiny stars worn by River Forest's police force.

Roy Dale with several companions, drove his car through the Chicago suburb. He passed Chief of Police Laatz and Patrolman Staurt.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laugh Dale. "Nice shiny stars. Ha, ha, ha!"

He pased the two policemen again.

"Ha, ha, ha!" he laughed.

Lattz arrested Dale, and Police Magistrate Wiliam Oliphant fined him $25 and costs for disorderly conduct.

"You can't make fun of our Police Department," was the Magistrate's solemn warning.

SHE COULDN'T LIE ON FEATHER BED

Cincinnati Woman Ached From Head to Foot After Four Years Of Rheumatism.

Characteristic of the statements that have made Tanlac a household word throughout the entire continent is that of Mrs. A. McLeash, 433 West Eight St., Cincinnati. She relates her remakable experience as follows:

"I just know I am the happiest woman in Ohio since I got my health back. Rheumatism had me in its clutches for fourteen years and I had been confined to the house for months when I began taking Tanlac. My feet and ankles were so swollen I couldn't put my shoes on and my arms hurt me so bad I couldN't raise my hand to my head. I ached all over, and my skin was so sensitive it hurt even to lie on my feather bed. I had a bad case of stomach trouble too and I believe I was the most miserable person alive.

"Tanlac is the only thing that ever helped me and my only regret is that I didn't try it years ago. It soon had me out of bed and able to get around As my rheumaticm left me I began to get some real rest at night. My improvement kept up until today I am in perfect health, able to go anywhere and haven't a pain or an ache. I have no more trouble from indigestion and eat anything I want.

"Soon after Tanlac got me out of bed I went to the big revival meeting at the tabernacle, and when my friends saw me there they were amazed they could hardly believe their own eyes as they had no idea I would ever get on my feet again. I will never forget I owe health and happiness to Tanlac, The grandest medicine on earth."

Efficient Housekeeping

BY Laura A. Kirkman

"Just How to Make a Delicious Cocoanut Layer Cake.

"Please publish one of your "just how recipes for a Cocoanut Layer Cake," writes a bride reader of this column, Here is my reply.

Cocoanut Layer cake: Cream together 1-2 cup of butter and 1 cup of granulated sugar; add the beaten yolks of 2 eggs and 1 cup of sweet milk. Now sift together 2 1-2 cups of flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder and 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder and 1-2 teaspon salt and add these to the mixing bowl also. Fold in the stiffy-beaten whites of 2 eggs and flavor with 1 teaspoon of vanilla. Pour this batter into 2 buttered layer cake pans and bake for 25 minutes in a hot oven. Put between these layers the following:

Cocoanut Cream Filling for a two-layer cake: (This will make just enough for one cake.) Heat 3-4 of a cup of sweet milk in a small saucepan. Now take 1-4 cup of more sweet milk and mix into it 4 tablespoons of flour when stirred smooth, add this thickening to the hot milk, stirring constantly. Have ready in a small bows well beaten egg which has been mixed with 6 tablespoons of granulated sugar and a pinch of salt, and add this to the milk a few seconds after adding the flour. When thick, stir in 1 cup of shredded cocoanut and let cook a minute, then remove from range and add 1 teaspoon vanilla. (This filling is apt to catch at the bottom and burn unless it is stirred ceaselessly.) Spread at once between two cold or hot layers (it makes no difference which) and proceed to make the following icing:

Just enough Cocoanut Icing for One Layer Cake: Beat 1 egg in a medium sized mixing bowl ready to have hot sirup poured into it. Now make the sirup in this way: Mix together 2 tablespoons of boiling water and 4 tablespoons of granulated sugar in a small saucepan and let them boil without stirring until a little will "thread" from a spoon when it is held high in the air and dripped back into the saucepan. (For the inexperienced I might say that this "thread" is an almost invisable spider-web-like ending of the drop of sirup after it has just left the edge of the spoon.) When this stage is reached take the saucepan off the fire at once and pour the hot sirup into the stiffy-beaten egg-white; beat rapidly, using an egg beater of the wheel type, and after one full minute of beating add 1-2 cup of shredded cocoanut.

Spread at once over the layer.

Many housekeepers prefer to make double this quantity of icing and put half of it between the two layers and the other half on top—thus obviating the necsity of making a separate filling. But to my mind it is well worth while to take the trouble to make the cream filing I have given about which is simewhat like a custard filling light yellow in color) as it gives a little more variety to the cake and is softer.

It the beginner wishes to be doubly sure of success with the Cocoanut Cream Filling (that is, sure that it will not catch and burn) she may cook it in her double boiler instead of over direct heat, allowing it to cook over the boiler for 15 minutes before adding the flavoring.

AN EASY GUEST LUNCHEON FOR THE MAIDLESS HOME

The following guest luncheon is planned especially for the hostess who must cook the meal herself. It will be seen that it is one of thos everything on-the-table luncheons so convenient to the waiterless home. The luncheon rolls are the only warm food (one warm dish is necessary to digestion) and these may be placed upon the luncheon table just before the guests are seated. I have suggested canned jelled consomme because in the warm weather the efficient housewife conserves her strength as much as possible, and there is no need in her bending over a hot stove to prepare home-made consomme when the canned variety will answer the purpose every bit as well.

PROTECTION FROM COOKING ODORS.

If the woman who does her own cooking will try wearing a bathing cap over her hair when frying doughnuts, pancakes, etc., she will find it protects from grease and odors and preserves the curl. They come in many colors and are quite as attractive as the ordinary dust cap.

MRS. D. N. LEWIS.

The Revolt of Vera Sanderson

By JANE PHELPS.

MARGARET TRIES TO ARROUSE VERA'S SUSPICION.

CHAPTER 72.

"How did you do it?" Erma asked after Keith had put us in a tixi and bade us godbye. "I never saw anything so clever in my life."

"It's time I learned to be clever Erma, if I am to keep my husband. All the time I have been staying in the house Margaret has thrown that widow at his head. She had no intention of meeting them today. I'm not very happy over it either, Erma But I don't think that even Margaret can make Keith object to what I bought today."

"I should hope not after what you said. Really, Vera, the way you upbraided her for taking your husband away from business when you had been spending his money was delicious.

"I have made up my mind that is the only way to win out with him Erma. He hates tears, and won't be questioned or stand for anything that looks like fault-finding from me although he does from Margaret. I must try to be tactful enough to keep him. I love him dearly, and at times I think he loves me. I know he would have loved me if we could have had a home of our own away from Margaret's influence."

To my surprise, Keith said nothing at dinner of our meeting, nor did he mention my shopping. I also said nothing in regard to how I had spent the day.

My hats, and one of the dresses, came the next afternoon, late. Keith came in directly, afterward.

"When did you buy them?" Margaret asked.

"Yesterday."

"Why didn't you wait until I could go with you?"

"I had waited quite long enough for new clothes, and I am capable of buying them myself." I spoke pleasantly. "Keith helped me select my hats."

"But I thought you—" she halted in what she had been about to say to Keith. I finished the sentence for her:

"You thought he was lunching with Mrs. De Yisle. He was, but he also went with his wife to buy hats."

"Come girls, I'm hungry. Let the discussion of clothes until after dinner."

Margaret reluctantly followed us in to the dining room.

"Did you get anything else?" she asked after the soup had been served.

"Yes. I bought an afternoon dress—it will be ready for Mrs. Hunter's bridge—and the dearest evening gown

"What color?"

"Orange and black. It is immensely becoming."

"I will go with you in the morning and see if it is appropriate."

"There is no need. It has been altered, and so many changes made that Loretta would not make any change now. Anyway I do not wish it."

"You must have a pretty bill for Keith to pay. Three dresses in one day!"

"As long as I have had none in months I guess Keith wont object, will you dear?"

"No Vera. And Margaret please let's drop the clothes question."

Margaret looked at him as if she were at a loss to understand his attitude. Not once had he said I should have taken her with me, or blamed me for not asking her advice I knew it was because of what I had said, the way I had acted when I met him with Mrs. De Lisle. Margaret would hear of it in good time, I had no doubt. But until she did it was rather fun that I had puzzled her.

In my glee at having for once outwitted Margaret, I did not take into account the feeling against me it would engender in her. For days there was nothing she could do to annoy me or or make me unhappy that she left undone. When the dresses came home she could not conceal her chagrin that they were so becoming. That very day she had seen Mrs. De Lisle.

"So you caught Alice and Keith," she said gleefully.

"Yes, wasn't it odd that I should have seen them? Erma and I had just finished our luncheon. Had I known they were having their lunch so near I should have joined them.

"You mean you would have gone without invitation!"

"I cannot see that a wife needs to wait for a formal invitation to lunch with her own husband." I was determined to keep my temper.

"No—well, you have a lot to learn about a good many things. When a man is at lunch with a fascinating woman he doesn't care to be interrupted, even by his wife."

"I can't see that Mrs. De Lisle is so fascinating."

"Can't you?" Margaret rejoined with a disagreeable smile. "Keith probably let you have all those clothes because he felt a bit guilty," she added with an unmistakable sneer.
